UMPIRES—O'Loughlin, Rigler, Klem and Evans.

FENWAY PARK, Boston, Oct. 16.—The Giants and Red Sox met this afternoon to battle for the baseball championship of the world. Seven games had been played before the game began today, and each team had won three and one had been tied.

For Boston, Bedient pitched, and Mathewson, who tied one game and lost one, worked for New York.

The crowd was small in comparison with other days.

The fans seemed to have boycotted the Red Sox today. Fifteen minutes before play began there were not more than 300 spectators in the big grand stand. The huge bleachers were not one-half filled.

The royal rooters were angry over having been deprived of their seats yesterday and with the backing of Mayor Fitzgerald have turned against the management of the Boston club.

THE BATTING ORDER.

BOSTON.	NEW YORK.
Hooper rf.	Devore rf.
Yerkes 2b.	Doyle 2b.
Speaker cf.	Snodgrass cf.
Lewis lf.	Murray lf.
Gardner 3b.	Merkle 1b.
Stahl 1b.	Herzog 3b.
Wagner ss.	Meyers c.
Cady c.	Fletcher ss.
Bedient p.	Mathewson p.

First Inning.

GIANTS—The first ball pitched was a ball. Devore went out, Wagner to Stahl. It was a fine stop and throw. Wagner also threw out Doyle. The Giants were waiting out Bedient to the last ball. Snodgrass walked. Snodgrass stole second. Wagner dropped Cady's perfect throw. Gardner threw out Murray. NO RUNS, NO HITS, ONE ERROR.

RED SOX—Hooper went out to Merkle unassisted. He bunted the first ball pitched into Merkle's hands. Yerkes struck out. By daring base running Speaker stretched a hit to right into a double. The umpire called him out, but reversed his decision when he saw that Doyle had dropped Devore's throw. The official scorer credited Speaker with only a single and gave Doyle an error. Lewis struck out. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, ONE ERROR.

Second Inning.

GIANTS—Merkle struck out. Herzog filed to Speaker. Meyers was safe when he hit between Gardner's legs. Fletcher singled to center. Cady threw to Wagner to catch Meyers napping, but Meyers went to third and was safe when Gardner dropped Wagner's throw. Mathewson filed to Speaker. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, TWO ERRORS.

RED SOX—Gardner walked. It was Mathewson's first pass in 21 innings. Stahl forced Gardner, Doyle to Fletcher. Wagner singled to left. Cady filed to Merkle. Bedient died, Doyle to Merkle. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

Third Inning.

GIANTS—Devore walked. Doyle was out, Gardner to Stahl. Snodgrass went out, Stahl unassisted, and Devore went to third. Devore scored on Murray's two-base hit to left. Wagner threw out Merkle. ONE RUN, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

RED SOX—Doyle threw out Hooper. Yerkes was out, Mathewson to Merkle. Speaker struck out. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Fourth Inning.

GIANTS—Herzog doubled to left. Meyers sacrificed, Gardner to Stahl. Fletcher filed to Gardner. Mathewson filed to Hooper. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

RED SOX—Lewis died, Fletcher to Merkle. Snodgrass dropped Gardner's long fly, but he was out at third, Snodgrass to Doyle to Herzog. Gardner was credited with a two-bagger. Stahl struck out. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE GAME

Speaker made a great try for Murray's double in the third. After a hard run, he got one hand on it, but could not hold it.

FENWAY PARK, BOSTON, Oct. 16.

At the beginning it began to look as though "Kid" Bedient was going to repeat, despite the frosty aspect of the local citizens and a couple of misplays by Gardner that might have unsettled a veteran hurler.

Boston tried the waiting game today and, as a result, Gardner got the first pass Matty of the wonderful control has issued.

Doyle and Fletcher pulled a circus stunt in getting Gardner on his force-out in the second. Larry stumbled when he fielded the ball and Fletcher had to make a wild dive to get the throw and reach the bag with his foot.

$3,000,000 BOND FOR APPEAL IN TAX SUIT

Amount of Judgment Awarded by Judge Shields' Decision Is $1,186,618.67.

To appeal from Judge Shields' decision in six suits brought by the city under the mill-tax ordinance, the United Railways Co. will be required to give bond for a sum exceeding $3,000,000.

The City Counselor's office announced Wednesday its estimate of the exact amount of the judgment awarded by Judge Shields decision Tuesday. This estimate gave the amount of the actual judgments as $1,186,618.67, and the amount due, with interest at 6 per cent from the time when each quarterly payment was due, as $1,560,267.62.

To perfect an appeal, the company must file a bond for twice the amount of the judgment. Twice the principal and interest adjudged due in this case would be $3,120,535.24.

The company has three days longer in which to move for a new trial. After the motion for a new trial is passed upon, 60 to 90 days will probably be granted for perfecting an appeal. Lawyers remarked that the company might have trouble in giving so large a bond. Two trust companies acted as sureties on a similar appeal bond in the sum of $100,000, given in appeals from mill-tax decisions involving about $50,000.

BUSINESS MEN PUT BAN ON COCKTAIL BEFORE LUNCHEON

Not More Than One-Third of Those at Dinners Take the Appetizers.

The Manhattan cocktail, dry Martini, and other spiritous liquors are being tabooed by St. Louis business men as luncheon and dinner drinks. This was disclosed by a new luncheon and banquet rule of the Business Men's League.

Until recently a Manhattan or Martini was placed by the waiters at each plate. Officials of the League found so many of the members did not drink the cocktails that they adopted a rule requiring the waiters to pass among the tables and take the orders of those who wished them served.

At the luncheon Tuesday at the Mercantile Club not more than one-half the members ordered cocktails. One cocktail to each member who ordered it was all the liquor served with the luncheon.

"Business men are cutting out the drink habit," an official of the league said. "Very few business men will drink during business hours. If they drink at all, it is after the day's work is done."

BULL MOOSE BUTTON IS REMOVED AFTER SHOOTING

Was on Card Bearing Words "Shoot It" and Hung at G. O. P. Headquarters.

A Bull Moose button on a card with the words "Shoot It" printed under the emblem of the Progressive party was taken down in Republican city headquarters following the shooting of Col. Theodore Roosevelt in Milwaukee. The card was stuck in the corner of a picture frame, and had been there for several days prior to the attempted assassination of Col. Roosevelt.

A framed picture of Col. Roosevelt, bearing his autograph signature, hanging between the pictures of former President McKinley and President Taft has not been removed from city headquarters. It was presented to the City Committee by Col. Roosevelt while Jeptha D. Howe was chairman.

Congressman Bartholdt has made several protests against the picture being allowed to remain in Republican headquarters. The friends of Col. Roosevelt in the committee have refused to sanction its removal, despite Bartholdt's objections.

EXTREME CARE TAKEN IN GUARDING TAFT

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—On his way today to the railroad station to take a train for Worcester, Mass., President Taft was guarded closely by secret service men and a squad of motor cycle police. In addition several detectives followed him in an automobile.

At the station, instead of entering by the passenger entrance, the President was escorted through the baggage room and taken to the train in a freight elevator.

THURSDAY EXPECTED TO BE FAIR AND WARMER

Those prematurely picked overcoats will have to back into the moth balls, cedar chests or closets, as the case may be, if the prophecy of the weather forecaster comes true.

Indian summer has not yet departed and there is more warm weather in sight. Those medium weight suits which were bought to fill in between seasons will again demonstrate their usefulness.

While there was a chill in the air in the early morning hours the temperature rose rapidly and the sun was bright and warm, suggesting to many that famous quotation from Izaak Walton: "Let's go fishin'."

Official forecast for St. Louis and vicinity: Fair and warmer tonight and Thursday.

Stage of the river: 7.4 feet; a rise of .1 of a foot.

JOHN SCHRANK WHO SHOT COL. ROOSEVELT

SCHRANK AT HOME WAS ECCENTRIC

MUNICH, Bavaria, Oct. 16.—John Schrank, the assailant of Col. Roosevelt, is a native of the village of Erding, in Northern Bavaria, 20 miles from this city. Several members of his family still reside there and are of good repute.

Schrank was regarded as an eccentric character. He has been carried on the mobilization lists as a deserter.

BRYAN SAYS MADMAN IS NOT CAMPAIGN ARBITER

FRANKLIN, Ind., Oct. 16.—"It is embarrassing to discuss Mr. Roosevelt or his policies while he is suffering from the murderous assault made upon him," was the way William J. Bryan opened his first address on his Indiana tour here today.

"I would rather occupy the time," continued Bryan, "in denunciation of the deed and in expression of sympathy for him and hopes for his speedy recovery, but the issues of the campaign should not be determined by the act of a madman. They must be settled by the sane, rather than the insane.

"Neither Col. Roosevelt nor his friends could ask that the discussion be turned away from the principles that are involved. If he is elected President, it should be because of what he has done in the past and what he proposed to do. A maniac, however, cowardly his deed, is not the arbiter to whom to submit a presidential contest."

STORM ON TEXAS COAST

Wind at Brownsville Said to Be 60 Miles an Hour.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 16.—Reports reached here today of a severe storm on the Texas coast, between Corpus Christi and Brownsville, for a stretch of about 150 miles. The wind at Brownsville was reported blowing 60 miles an hour. The storm at noon seemed to be working straight inland.

The coast line affected is sparsely settled.

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 16.—Reports circulating here tell of big storm damage at Brownsville. All efforts to reach that point had failed up to noon.

MRS. ROOSEVELT AND 3 CHILDREN AT THE HOSPITAL

Family, Reassured as to His Condition, Invited by Him to "Sit Down and Gossip."

TEMPERATURE AND PULSE PRACTICALLY NORMAL NOW

He Watches Work of Doctors in Dressing Wound With Great Interest—No Effort to Probe Bullet Today.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 16.—Chemical examination of the remaining bullets in Schrank's pistol shows that there was no poison on them.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—The fourth rib on Col. Roosevelt's right side was fractured by the bullet which struck him at Milwaukee Monday night. This became known today after members of his family had visited him. It was also learned that the X-ray photographs taken in Milwaukee failed to reveal the exact location of the bullet.

A more minute examination of the plates will be made. The fractured rib, it was explained, had caused the patient's pains in breathing previously noted by the surgeons.

The following bulletin was issued at 1:30 o'clock by Col. Roosevelt's physicians:

"Pulse, 90; temperature, 98.6 throughout the entire morning. Breathing a little easier. General condition excellent."

Following was the statement issued by Col. Roosevelt's physicians at 9:04 a. m. today:

"The records show that Col. Roosevelt passed a very good night; his temperature and pulse are normal; that his highest pulse since 9 o'clock last night was 80, temperature 98.8, and that his pulse at 6 o'clock this morning was 74 and his temperature 96.6 and respiration 20; that he is having less irritation of his pleura from the injured rib than he did yesterday; that he did not have to have an anodyne for the pain. General condition excellent.

"DR. J. B. MURPHY,
"DR. ARTHUR DEAN BEVAN,
"DR. SCURRY L. TERRELL."

Not until Friday will it be definitely known whether Col. Roosevelt is in serious danger from the wound. This information was given by the surgeons in attendance on the Colonel at Mercy Hospital in this city today.

It was said that all conditions were favorable to the distinguished patient's recovery, so far as indications have developed thus far, but that it was impossible to determine whether blood poisoning would follow.

If, at the end of two days more, no symptoms of poisoning have appeared, Col. Roosevelt will have passed the critical period and will be on the road to full recovery, according to the attendants.

The hourly record of Col. Roosevelt's temperature, pulse and respiration, which were available for inspection yesterday, were withheld today, and it was said that no information would be given as to the Colonel's condition except that contained in the surgeon's formal signed bulletins.

Col. Roosevelt, his family with him and satisfied as to his condition, today rested at greater ease than any other time since he was shot.

Physicians, examining his wound today and making a complete clinical examination, found his pulse, respiration and temperature nearer normal than at any other time since he was shot and so nearly at usual points that concern over his condition vanished. Their extremely conservative conduct gave way to a desire to establish public assurance that no complications now were looked for to stand in the way of rapid recovery.

Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Ethel and Theodore Jr. arrived early in the day and went at once to his apartment with Mrs. Alice Longworth and Dr. Alexander Lambert, the family physician in New York.

"Hello," shouted the Colonel gaily when Mrs. Roosevelt appeared in his doorway laughing. She had been told on the way up to his floor that the Colonel's condition had been found exceptionally good in the examination just concluded and her apprehension had vanished.

When the other members of his family appeared the same cheery greeting met them at the doorway, and he asked them to draw up chairs to his bedside and "gossip with him."

At the examination made while the wound was being dressed this morning he again looked down at it and discussed its apparent condition with Dr. Murphy. He was shown the bulletin issued by the physicians and merely grunted a satisfied approval.

COLONEL WATCHES WOUND AS IT IS DRESSED

Mrs. Roosevelt has been provided an apartment adjoining and connected with the patient's room, and she will remain there during his stay at Mercy Hospital.

Mrs. Roosevelt remained with her husband all the morning and no one else save the physicians and nurses was permitted to enter the room. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., Mrs. Longworth and Miss Ethel Roosevelt went to a private house near the hospital, where rooms had been procured for them.

Col. Roosevelt awoke at 6:20 this morning "feeling fine," as he expressed it to his night nurse, who prepared to take his clinical record. At that time the Colonel had had more than three hours of unbroken rest and his condition showed marked improvement.

The clinical record showed Col. Roosevelt's temperature to be 98.6, his pulse 74 and his respiration 20. This indicated a decrease in his temperature of .2, 10 beats in his pulse and two counts in his respiration since 10 o'clock last night.

A temperature of 98.6 is the exact physiological normal. The pulse, in a man of Col. Roosevelt's age, varies from about 68 to 75 beats a minute. His is 72 when normal, physicians say. A respiration of 20 is normal for one of his age.

During the early hours of the night, Col. Roosevelt's sleep was often broken and for long periods he was awake, whiling away the time with a copy of Macaulay's essays which he had brought to the hospital with him. Often the volume would fall from his hands and for a short space he dozed, only to awaken with a start and resume his reading.

Long Sleep of Great Benefit to Him.

Up to two o'clock in the morning his clinical record was regularly taken but shortly after that time he fell into a deep slumber from which he did not awaken until long past daylight. That the long sleep had been beneficial was at once apparent and it hardly needed his testimony to confirm it.

As soon as the Colonel awoke he insisted upon having his breakfast which he had ordered before midnight for 7 o'clock. He was dissuaded, however, from having it at this early hour and was told he first must have his bath and then his breakfast would be prepared for him.

While he was having his bath the Colonel remarked upon the prospects for a nice day. He also insisted upon ordering his breakfast, which he said must be ready for him just as soon as his sponge bath had been completed. He ordered bacon, soft boiled eggs, buttered toast and a pot of tea "piping hot."

Doctors Murphy, Bevan and Terrell at 8:40 held a consultation in Col. Roosevelt's apartment while Dr. William Macauley of the hospital staff dressed the patient's wound. They had with them the X-ray photograph plates and carefully inspected the wound with a view of ascertaining if possible just what physical conditions existed in the tissue surrounding the missile.

When his breakfast was brought to him, Col. Roosevelt viewed it with a mile, and after he had finished declared it to have been "bully."

He then resumed his reading while his nurses made preparations for the coming consultation.

Roosevelt Family Arrives.

Mrs. Roosevelt and her party, which had been joined by Mrs. Alice Longworth, arrived at the hospital at 9:20 o'clock, and Mrs. Roosevelt went directly to the Colonel's room. She went in smiling and spoke cheeringly to the patient. Miss Ethel, Mrs. Longworth and Theodore Roosevelt Jr., with Dr. Alexander Lambert, their family physician, remained in the corridor. The Roosevelt party left the train from New York at Englewood, a suburb, and motored direct to the hospital.

Col. Roosevelt was even in better spirits today and, the novelty of the situation having worn off, he prepared for the day with the idea of getting all the work done that he could in the way of delayed correspondence and writings.

Room 312, next to that of the Colonel, was made ready for Mrs. Roosevelt, and the patient sent out for some toilet articles and conveniences for her. He was anxious, he said, to see her and have her anxiety relieved by his personal assurance and that of his physicians that the wound was no more dangerous than had been disclosed in his messages to her and the press dispatches.

Colonel Fears "Scolding."

When Col. Roosevelt was informed that Mrs. Roosevelt had left the Twentieth Century Limited train at Englewood, within two miles of the hospital and would be with him in a few moments, his first concern was that the room be in order and that everything in the room assigned to her should be ready.

"She is a good housekeeper, you know," he told Dr. John F. Golden, "and she might scold me if she found the room was not in the best order."

He presently was satisfied, however, and awaited her coming. The interval was spent in conversation with Dr. Golden and Dr. Murphy.

After Mrs. Roosevelt had been with her husband several minutes, the nurse appeared at the door and beckoned to the rest of the party.

Dr. Lambert went only far enough to leave his hand and shout good morning to the Colonel. Mrs. Longworth led the others of the party in, and Theodore Jr. was the last to enter.

Sister Clings to Mrs. Longworth.

Of the arrivals, Miss Ethel displayed most concern. Her face was paler than is its wont, and she appeared frightened and nervous at contemplation of being in a hospital. She clung tightly to Mrs. Longworth's arm until they went into their father's room.

Mrs. Longworth, who assured herself last night that her father's condition was not serious, smilingly patted the hand of her sister, and showed no anxiety. She had read a copy of the physician's bulletin which indicated a more improved condition than even the hopeful situation yesterday, and told its contents to Miss Ethel, while Theodore Jr. listened attentively.

The reassuring words failed to remove the look of anxiety from the younger girl's face, but after a few words with the Colonel himself, and after his cheery greeting and invitation to "sit down and gossip" with him, Miss Roosevelt's nervousness fled, and she laughed with her father, and wanted to have him tell her "just how it happened."

"Not now," he replied. "I want first to hear how you folks rested last night. I hope you didn't worry after our messages to you."

Solicitude for Daughter.

He told Mrs. Roosevelt of the arrangement whereby she was to have the room adjoining him, and asked Miss Ethel whether she wanted to remain with her mother or stop elsewhere. She was undecided, and Mrs. Roosevelt suggested that her daughter's inexperience as to hospitals and sick might make it difficult for her to obtain rest, so that it might be better for her not to try to remain at the hospital. They were undecided.

After chatting with the Colonel for a few moments, the members of his family removed their wraps and prepared to make a short stay with him. Mrs. Roosevelt was pleased at the arrangements for her, and told the Colonel and attendants so.

Articles the Colonel had ordered for her dressing table had arrived and her spirits rose rapidly at cognizance of her husband's solicitude for her comfort. She talked gaily and after the first five minutes there was no air of concern about any of his family.

In adjoining room Dr. Lambert, the Roosevelt family physician, heard from the physicians who had attended the Colonel what had been done and heard a technical description of the course of the wound by the bullet and of its present location.

Probing Considered Unwise.

Dr. Lambert, too, was inclined to doubt the necessity or wisdom of an attempt at present to remove the missile. He agreed with the other physicians that the bullet appeared to be causing no more trouble, and that it was wiser to leave it there until it was segregated from adjoining tissue by natural processes, when, if Col. Roosevelt desired, it might be removed with no inconvenience to him.

The attitude of his physicians today as freely expressed by them was simply to treat the case as one chiefly requiring nursing; not to do anything to make the Colonel's recovery delayed by even a day, and to take all precautions provided in surgical knowledge to prevent any of the possible complications from setting in.

KINGS CABLE GOOD WISHES TO COLONEL

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.

MRS. ROOSEVELT today received the following cablegram from King George V of England:

"I have been very much concerned to hear of the dastardly attack upon Col. Roosevelt's life, and trust that he will recover speedily. GEORGE, R. I."

Another personal cablegram was received today by Col. Roosevelt from King Christian of Denmark, hoping for his speedy recovery.

MADRID, Oct. 16.—King Alfonso today cabled to Col. Theodore Roosevelt his congratulations of his happy escape from the attempt on his life and expressed the most sincere wishes of his rapid recovery.

SCHRANK RAVED ON AUNT'S GRAVE; KINSMEN INSANE

Roosevelt Assailant Roomed Near Cemetery and Kept Flowers on Mound.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—John Schrank, New York policemen declare, came from an ancestry in which insanity was frequent and had been, presumably, slightly unbalanced mentally for several years. The unhinging of his mind is believed to date either from the death of his aunt in 1907, or from the death of a girl friend in the Slocum disaster.

Schrank was born in Bavaria and came to this country when 9 years old, with an uncle, Dominick Flammang, whose name the boy bore for many years. His father is said to have suffered from insane delusions and his grandfather, a wealthy Bavarian brewer, also exhibited unsoundness of mind in his declining years.

Scene at Aunt's Death.

Flammang ran a saloon on the East Side and prospered. Eight years ago he retired with a comfortable little fortune invested in real estate, which went to Schrank on their death. Mrs. Flammang died in a hospital in 1907 and her husband died a few years ago. Schrank, who was devoted to his aunt, made a scene in the room where she died, refusing to leave her body until he was forcibly ejected. He again became violent at the funeral and for several days he remained at the grave, weeping and mourning. After the death of his uncle Schrank removed his scanty effects to a little hotel in Brooklyn a block away from the cemetery and thereafter he spent days beside his aunt's grave, which he kept covered with flowers. The police are holding a bundle of letters and other papers taken from Schrank's room in the Brooklyn hotel.

Schrank left the Brooklyn address nine months ago and took up his residence at the Canal street lodging house where he lived until about Sept. 20, when his pursuit of Roosevelt begun. Schrank has absolutely no police record in this city.

Story of Sweetheart Denied.

The mother and sister of Elsie Ziegler brand as false the statements that Schrank was in love with Miss Ziegler, who perished in the burning of the steamer Gen. Slocum. Mrs. Ziegler speaks but little English. The story as told by her daughter, Alys, follows:

"For my sister's sake I wish to make it perfectly clear that she was never in love with this man who shot Roosevelt. It was eight years ago when we last saw him, and the man now known as Schrank was known by us as Flammang. He was bartender in a place at 370 East Tenth street, over which we lived for several years. If he had any unusual friendship with my sister, it was unknown to any of us. I was with my sister all the time, and we used to tell each other everything. If there had been any love affair, I am sure I would have known of it. She almost hated him, and I think that he must be using the fact of her death to shield himself."

"He was no good," Mrs. Ziegler added.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE SAYS PRAYERS FOR COLONEL

After Meeting in Newport, R. I. Telegram Is Sent to Roosevelt.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 16.—Prayers for the recovery of Col. Roosevelt were offered last night at a special service held in Trinity Church here under the auspices of the Women's Progressive League of Rhode Island. Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott, daughter of the late Julia Ward Howe, led the meeting.

The following telegram, was sent to Col. Roosevelt.

bath his clinical record was taken. Temperature 98.8, pulse 88.

Begins Reading Again.

He turned on his night light and began to read again, saying that he would continue until he got sleepy.

At midnight Col. Roosevelt was soundly sleeping. Dr. John F. Golden, assistant surgeon of the hospital, and Dr. Muhphy's chief assistant in charge of the case, took a look at the patient and reported that there was no prospect of any change in the Colonel's condition during the night.

Col. Roosevelt's temperature at 12:45 remained at 98.8. His pulse, however, had dropped two points nearer normal, 84, and his respiration was 18. He was sleeping soundly, and had not stirred. The hospital corridors were in darkness, except for a dim light where a policeman sat on guard outside the Colonel's door, and a ray from a reading light, where the night nurse was keeping watch in the room next to his.

The patient was sleeping so soundly at 2 a. m. that his nurse did not rouse him to take his temperature. His condition apparently was approximately normal. He lay on his left side, breathing easily and regularly.

The Colonel awoke soon after 2 a. m. and his clinical report was taken. His pulse had fallen to 80 and was not far above normal, his temperature remained stationary at 98.8 and his respiration was 18.

He felt wakeful and switched on his light and began to read.

Takes Last Sleep of Night.

At 3:30 Col. Roosevelt had gone sound asleep, the book he had been reading had dropped from his hands and lay beside him open, at the page he had just finished when sleep came. Nurse Fitzgerald said she would not disturb him to take his temperature.

He still was asleep at 4 o'clock and the nurse did not awaken him. The Colonel was snoring so loudly that it could plainly be heard outside his room in the corridor.

HIS 30c ANGERS ROBBERS

Beating Given Man Whose Purse Was Almost Empty.

Rabbi Bierenbaum, 21 years old, of 1915 Biddle street, had to submit to a severe beating at the hands of two highwaymen Tuesday night because he had only 30 cents when they held him up on Dickson street, between Jefferson avenue and Twenty-fourth street.

One of the robbers held a revolver to his head while the other commanded him to hand over his money. Bierenbaum displayed 30 cents, saying that was all the money he had. The robbers then beat him and jumped on a southbound Jefferson car.

OLDEST FIREMAN BURIED

Gong Tolled for Westerman as Cortege Passes Engine House.

Firemen of the city Tuesday afternoon paid tributes to the memory of Henry L. Westerman, 3904 Michigan avenue, the oldest fireman in the city, both in age and years of service. Many of them, including Chief Swingley, attended the services at the family home. As the procession passed Westerman's old station at Pennsylvania avenue and Kruuse street, the gong rang and the firemen stood in front until the cortege had passed.

Westerman, who was an engineer for No. 23 Company, was 80 years old. He had been a fireman here for 33 years. He died Sunday at 7 p. m.

ROOSEVELT AWAKENS OFTEN IN THE NIGHT

Col. Roosevelt bade the last of his callers good night at 8 o'clock last night and prepared for a comfortable night, to be spent in part in reading. He said he felt fine, and told Dr. John F. Golden, who kept watch over him, that unless the final injection of tetanus antitoxin interfered he would have the "first real comfortable evening to himself" he had enjoyed in many days.

He laid aside his book a few minutes after 8 o'clock, and switched off his reading light. He was soon fast asleep. Dr. Murphy went into the Colonel's room at 9:45, and found him sound asleep.

The patient's pulse was 86 when taken before he dropped to sleep. This was two points higher than it was the night after the shooting, and 14 above normal. His temperature was three-fifths of a degree above normal.

Dr. Murphy at 10 o'clock said that the Colonel had a temperature of 98.2 and a pulse of 86. The Colonel shortly after Dr. Murphy saw him seemed somewhat restless.

After having had several short naps, Col. Roosevelt awakened at 10:30 p. m. and called for hot water to shave himself. He sat up in bed with a hand mirror against his knee and shaved, and then a sponge bath and alcohol rubdown was given by his nurse. After the

The Correct Costume for the Horse Show
Is Assured if Purchased at Vandervoort's

Above every other occasion you want to feel assured that your costume for the Horse Show is faultless in style, becomingness and quality and bears the impress of distinctiveness. Such a selection in our recently enlarged Costume Salon can be made quickly from the handsomest and most diversified line of gowns we have ever shown, ranging in price from $29.50 to $350

The Dress illustrated is an adaptation from a Drecoll model of soft rose meteor showing an unusual drape of the material over cream lace underdress. The sleeves are of rose chiffon. Price $135.00

A new Dinner Dress just received is of bright turquoise charmeuse with upper bodice and tunic of cream lace. The tunic shows the new cutaway front and is caught in graceful drape at the back. This is an exceptionally smart dress that is moderately priced at $57.50

Another attractive Dress is of Black Lace over white Satin, cleverly arranged to show the underdress. A touch of velvet on the bodice and girdle gives a smart effect. Special value $60.00

Clever Dinner Gowns that we believe to be the best ever offered at the prices are shown at $29.50, $37.50 and $45.00

Matinee Frocks of meteor charmeuse and chiffon velvet in lovely new shades and stylish effects range in price from $16.50 to $57.50

A Charmeuse Frock showing the new touches is in black or navy with white yoke and sleeves; gathered skirt made on Empire lines and tiny jet buttons finish the front panel. Price $25.00

A new Eponge Frock for street and general wear that is very effective is made on faultlessly plain Empire lines; skirt has narrow black braid binding and the bone buttons add a charming touch to this frock. Price $32.50

A stunning Frock of chiffon velvet is fastened at the front; it has Robespierre collar and braid ornaments in the new amber shade. The skirt shows a clever drape. This is a very special value at $45.00

Dress Goods and Cloths

We have never been so well equipped to supply as many novelty suitings and coatings, also materials for the one-piece dress and separate skirt, as this season.

High-class Novelty Suit Patterns are shown in individual styles and colors. These are all exclusive styles, only one of each, and they are the products of the leading manufacturers of Europe. Prices $15 to $30

Exclusive patterns in Novelty Coatings — changeable and two-toned Polo Cloths. Pattern $18.00

Astrakhans in black and gray are very much in demand this season for coats and collars The yard $3.00 to $12.50

We are showing several pieces of 45-inch Flowered Nets for over-draping, including a broaded effect which is very new. The colors used in these Nets are especially pleasing The yard $2.25 to $3.00

Novelty Hair Ornaments of Exceptional Beauty

We are glad to announce that our stock of high-grade Novelty Hair Ornaments is again complete after the great inroads made into it before the Veiled Prophet's Ball. Included in our showing will be a number of new pieces which failed to arrive in time for the ball.

Among them are Bandeaux elaborately set with the finest quality of rhinestones and with a little feather at the side, also a number of new Casque Combs such as have found great favor in Paris and in the East. These are in plain and stone-set ball effects and may be had with large Loop Pins to match.

Barrettes in every conceivable pattern of shell and aluminum with stone settings are offered at reasonable prices.

Slipper Buckles in a host of fashionable stone-set designs; range in price, the pair, from $1.50 to $15.00

Millinery for the Horse Show

This week we are making a large display of Dress Hats suitable for wear at the Horse Show next week. The variety is so extensive and the range of price is so great you will find no difficulty in securing a Hat to fill your requirements.

One of the prettiest models is a Hat made with a gold lace brim and trimmed with a band of Marten and Bird of Paradise on the brim.

The Hat shown in the picture is a stunning model from Georgette. It is black and white and trimmed with a long white Ostrich plume with a boa end that fastens around the throat.

White Velvet and Plush Hats are being greatly worn in Paris. These are mostly in the small and medium shapes and are simply trimmed. Our showing includes a number of very attractive models with tam o' shanter crown.

The New Fans From Paris and Vienna

We are now displaying one of the largest and finest collections of Imported Fans in our history. They have just arrived from Paris and Vienna—two cities that have an international reputation for their artistic and well-made fans.

The styles are all new this year and the workmanship cannot be excelled; they are perfectly finished in the minutest detail.

Owing to our direct importation we can save you the importer's profit, which is very considerable.

These fans are shown in hand-painted, spangled, lace, feather and other effects.

We have a beautiful line of Imported Velvet and Steel-studded Bags in the newest shapes of the season.

Many New Garments for the House

A Tea Gown, Kimona, House Dress, or Bath Robe is nearly an indispensable addition for housewear to every woman's wardrobe. We are showing all the lovely new effects for Fall and Winter, including the following:

The House Dress, as shown in illustration, is in Empire style, has satin collar edged with plaited net and short sleeves with satin-trimmed cuffs; lavender, Copenhagen and navy blue hairline stripes on cream ground. Price $16.50

Japanese Silk Tea Gowns in Empire style lined to waist with albatross and trimmed with German Val. lace. The colors are pink, light blue and lavender. Price $9.00

Japanese Silk Empire Gowns lined to waist with albatross; large, round collar edged with plaited net, and the sleeves also finished with net plaiting. Colors, lavender, light blue and pink. Price $10.00

Albatross Kimonos made with a large sailor collar trimmed with band of embroidery; sleeves trimmed to match. Colors red, light blue, pink, lavender and gray. Price $5.00

Elderdown Bath Robes made with sailor collar bound with satin, finished with pocket and heavy cord. Colors, light blue, pink, gray and red. Price $5.00

Empire Kimonos of French Challis trimmed with border design. Choice of pink, blue and lavender printings on cream ground. Price $5.00

A Corset for Any Figure at $1.00

We have twenty distinct models at this price, including such well-known Corsets as Elitia, R. & G., W. B., P. N., Thomson, Warner Rust-proof, Kabo, H. & W., American Lady and C. B. Among them will be found a model suited to every figure—the growing girl, slender, medium and fully developed woman. The sizes range from 18 to 36.

The Corset illustrated is C. B., Model No. 263. It is made of batiste, has medium bust and long, unboned skirt extension and neatly trimmed with narrow band of blind embroidery, as well as being supplied with firm hose supporters.

The Possibilities of Dry Cleaning

Dry Cleaning is one of the Fine Arts and presents a solution to the problem of what to do with soiled garments. Not only does it thoroughly remove dirt, grease spots and stains from tailored suits, but it brightens and freshens the most delicate evening gowns. All the outer wearing apparel is subject to this marvelous treatment. Kid or satin slippers, dresses, suits, waists and cloaks respond remarkably to scientific treatment. White dresses and suits are done beautifully. Men's apparel is also a very satisfactory field. It adds much to the appearance of portieres, lace curtains, etc., and is an excellent germicide.

CHRANK DENIES THAT HE IS AN ANARCHIST

CHRANK'S STORY OF PLANS TO KILL ROOSEVELT TOLD

ssailant, in Police Examination, Relates How He Reached Decision, Purchased a Revolver and Set Out to Corner Former President—Denies He Is a Socialist or an Anarchist.

pecial to the Post-Dispatch.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 16.—Chief of Police Janssen has ven out a transcript of the statements made by John Schrank, ken soon after the shooting of Col. Roosevelt. Schrank at first fused to talk, but later told of his vision of McKinley, of his rchase of the weapon and of the plans he made to kill the for- President.

he examination was as follows:

. Did you speak with anybody in w York about this before you left? No, sir.

. You made your mind up to all this rself? A. Yes, because I am alone, hough I own property in New York.

. What property? A. I own property 33 East Eighty-first street.

. What does it consist of? A. It con- ts of an apartment house with 10 ten- s. It is estimated at $25,000.

Attended Political Meetings.

. Did you attend any political meet- s in New York before you left? A. I ended several; yes, sir; ever since I e coming across the country. I at- ded political meetings in Evansville, d., of the political parties.

. Have you been drinking lately? A. , sir, that ain't my habit.

. What is your favorite drink when u do? A. Beer.

. If you had your mind set upon ooting Mr. Roosevelt, how does it me you had to follow him to so many aces before you came here? A. As I ve been telling you a minute ago, he caped me many a time; he escaped me Chicago.

. By leaving the place where he spoke some other door? A. Some other door, d I was watching and he didn't come t that way and it was advertised by e papers he would come on the North- stern and instead he came on the St. ul.

Q. Where did you buy the revolver. In New York.

Q. When? A. On Saturday, the 21st.

Q. In this dream you had McKinley d you that it wasn't Czolgosz, but oosevelt, that killed McKinley? A. He ys in this way: "This is my mur- rer."

Q. Did you ever meet Czolgosz or ow him in his lifetime? A. No, sir. ow could I? I have been all that time nce I have been here in New York.

Q. Did you know John Most when he as alive? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever head of Emma Gold- an? A. No, sir; I am not an anarchist socialist, or Democrat or Republican. just took up the thing the way I ought it was best to do.

Denies He Is Anarchist.

Q. You are not a member of any par- ? A. No, sir. I thought there should an example of the third tem if it uld exist any longer. Mr. Grant was ed, and he was satisfied. This man refused, and he was not satisfied. as gone beyond limits, if he keeps doing this after election, he can't ssibly carry a solid Western state, he next thing we will have is a civil ar, because he says, "the scoundrels nd thieves and crooks stole my nomi- ation, and now they will steal my elec- on." And they will take up arms in ll the Western states. We are facing civil war just to keep him in a third rm, in an illegitimate place.

Q. Have you always enjoyed good ealth? A. Yes, sir. I am a healthy, ane man—never been sick.

Q. Well, do you think that it is a ne act you committed this afternoon? . I believe it is my duty as a citizen to o so; it is the duty of every citizen to o so.

Q. Well, how did you happen to get the ea that it was your duty, among all he people that live in the United tates. A. I don't know. I thought maybe somebody else might do it before got there.

Q. Are you familiar with the law in ew York with reference to the carry- g of concealed weapons? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is it? A. I know when I ought the gun the man told me: "I ave to take that one screw out, in or- er to make the trigger ineffective," nd I told him not to do so, because was going to leave town the very ame day, which I did.

Q. Didn't he take it out? A. No, sir; showed him the ticket for the steam- hip, that I was going South that same ay. And he said as I was going away, he law didn't fix that.

Q. When did you first begin to think bout this? A. I began to think about t after the Chicago convention.

Q. What did you read in the newspa- per that directed your mind to Mr. Roosevelt? A. I read a lot of things in the papers and especially in the New York World. The New York World practically came out that the country is in danger if he has the chair again.

Q. Did you read Harper's Weekly? A. Harper's, I don't read. No, sir.

Q. Did they say anything in particular that centered your attention on this act? A. No, sir; not at all. Perhaps 1,000,000 people read it and didn't think. I was interested from there.

Q. Editorial page? A. Editorial page.

Q. You remember any particular ed- itorial? A. No, sir, I do not remember; I could not repeat it.

Q. Well, did you read anything else in any other paper except the New York World that made an impression on you of Mr. Roosevelt? A. Well, in fact, I have been following up all papers of the political views and I have been taking out the World as the right thing. She is right the way she talked in one paper I read, the New York Herald, and she never speaks about it but the third- termer, and she don't mention his name, only the third-termer.

Prisoner Again Questioned.

In a later questioning of Schrank, he was reminded that when Col. Roosevelt was Police Commissioner of New York he enforced the Sunday law which com- pelled 800 saloons to close.

"How did the saloon keepers feel about that?" Schrank was asked.

"They did not feel nice about it."

"Did you lose very much then?"

"Well, that's different. In the pres- ent case there is a tradition that has lasted since Washington."

"Did you lose very much then?"

"No. I was merely barkeeping for my uncle."

"What other wrong do you think Roosevelt has done?"

"Don't know of anything more. Of course there was talk at that time that he ought to be shot."

"When did you get the idea that you were going to kill?"

"I got that when I was coming to Chicago."

"Did you ever read any newspapers?"

"Sure. I read the New York World and Herald every day."

"And they helped you to make up your mind?"

"No. It was after Sept. 14 when I got a dream and then I said to myself, 'that's the thing.'"

Schrank's Version of Dream.

The dream he referred to was the one he had mentioned when he said the spirit of former President McKinley had appeared to him at 1:30 a. m., Sept. 15 last—11 years and one day after the death of Mr. McKinley—and directed him to kill Col. Roosevelt. The spirit, according to Schrank, told him Roosevelt and not Czolgosz had been the real assassin.

"Did you ever tell anyone else?"

"No, I never said anything."

"Do you drink?"

"No, I can't stand it. I don't use any drugs, either. I'm just a healthy, strong, sane man."

"But why did you think the man should be killed?"

"Because of the tradition. Grant looked for it—the third term—but when his party refused to give it to him he dropped out. He didn't go ahead and try to start another party to gain of- fice."

"If Grant had attempted to get a third term, would you have had him killed?"

"Yes, and I would do it, too, if I were in the same condition as I am now. I would do it to anybody looking for a third term."

"What do you mean by being in the same condition?"

"Why, it is if I were strong and healthy and alone in the world as I am now."

Not Anarchist Nor Socialist.

"Are you a Socialist?" he was asked.

"I want it distinctly understood, gen- tlemen, that I have no affiliation with the anarchists nor with the Socialists. I don't believe in their principles. I have voted the Democratic ticket most of my life, but once or twice have been with the Republicans."

"I was a saloon keeper in New York, and, of course, with the Tammany crowd. I am Roman Catholic by birth, but have not gone to church in the last 10 years. I do not go to confession and then, of course, last night, I didn't think of religion.

"The money I used in my travels in following the third-termer was my own, I was not influenced nor put up to do the act by anyone.

"My dreams and my belief in the sa- credness of the anti-third-term princi- ples were the things which influenced me to do the act. I have about $25,000 worth of property in New York, so I could well afford to spend a hundred or two in doing away with the nation's greatest menace."

All during the time the man talked and was good-natured. He did not act like an insane man and used excellent English. He did not assume a boastful attitude, but was willing to talk because he thought that he had done a great thing. There is nothing in the appear- ance or conduct of Schrank that indi- cate to the casual observer a man of deranged mental faculties. He now oc- cupies a cell at police headquarters, and sits peering through the bars as though eager to engage in conversa- tion.

Stocky Build. Jaws Square.

He is a man of stocky build, with broad shoulders and square jaws. His lips are thin and straight, his nose is well shaped and he has a high and re- ceding forehead.

His eyes are small, set close together and of no particular color, while the whites of the eyes are clear and bril- liant, like "china eyes," with a bright, glassy stare.

Schrank showed no remorse for his at- tack on the Colonel, nor fear for the consequences of his act. He had a good night's rest in a cell at the county jail, to which he was transferred after be- ing arraigned in the District Court yes- terday.

"Schrank was asleep at 10:30 last night," said Sheriff William A. Ar- nold. "He slept throughout the night as an ordinary person and his actions are similar to those of the common prisoner."

NEW YORK AMERICAN DEFENDS NEWSPAPER CRITICS OF ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.

THE following editorial appeared this morning in the New York American under the heading "A Hideous Slander on Journalism:"

Mr. John B. Pratt, the American staff correspondent, who is with Col. Roosevelt, solely to report his speeches fully and fairly for the American's readers, was within a few feet of Col. Roosevelt when he was shot on Monday.

One fact in Mr. Pratt's report we deliberately suppressed Monday night. That was a statement by the assassin, Schrank, to Chief of Police Jannsen of Milwaukee that he "had been reading the New York World's and the New York Herald's attacks on Roosevelt's third-term aspirations. One of these papers never calls him anything but the "third-term candidate.' I believe any President seeking three terms should be shot."

This remark of the insane ruffian, Schrank, has since been printed in other newspapers, and we refer to it because Senator Dixon, who should know better, has also given out a public statement containing the same vague, indefinite, unfound- ed and inexcusable insinuation that the deed of the assassin is due in some unaccountable way to the ed- itorials of Col. Roosevelt's political enemies, and because, further, we think that any newspaper which— knowing the character and policy of the New York World and the Herald—nevertheless deigns to print such a hideous slander, without de- nouncing it as a disgrace to jour- nalism.

There is no more consistent or outspoken or more vigorous foe of mob violence anywhere than the New York World. It has attacked Col. Roosevelt incessantly, and un- doubtedly from conviction, but not more bitterly than he has attacked it. * * * Where, in this prosper- ous and, in the main, happy and sound hearted nation, such maniacs as Czolgosz and Schrank find the secret motive or inspiration for their unspeakable crimes, is a mys- tery. We cannot explain, we can only deplore it and pray for deliv- erance from all manifestations of it. But anyone who ascribes such acts to the teaching of any con- spicuous American newspapers is either a fool or a scoundrel.

NO NEED TO HAVE GRAY HAIR

This Simple Recipe, Made Up at Your Home, Solves the Problem.

A good many men and women go through life handicapped by gray hair, believing that it cannot be darkened so as to escape detection among their friends. This is altogether wrong. Of course the cheap dyes and stains are often unsatisfactory, but here is a sim- ple little formula, which you can put up at home for very little cost, that will be found to meet every requirement: To 7 ounces of water add one small box of Barbo Compound, 1 ounce of bay rum and ¼ ounce of glycerine, and you'll have a delightfully good preparation for gradually darkening gray hair or beards, as well as a good remedy for dandruff and other scalp disorders. It is to be applied once a week until the hair is darkened, then once every two weeks. It has none of the objectionable quali- ties of ordinary dyes and stains—stick- iness, rubbing off and such defects—and is genuinely reliable in every way. If your druggist hasn't Barbo Compound, ask him to order it for you.—ADV.

Never Such a Sale of Rugs—New Records

We are setting a lasting record for the selling of Rugs. Only an occasion similar to this one can compare with it. We bought the entire Rug Stock of a great jobbing house, Renard & Co. of 1213-27 Locust Street. That means thousands of dollars' worth of Rugs of every kind, size and quality. There were so many that we had to give over all our Rug floor space and then couldn't accommodate all. The demand for these has been so great that even though we trebled our sales force we haven't been able to wait on all. Note these prices; consider that every Rug is perfect, clean and in a splendid pattern.

MEDICAL EXPERTS BELIEVE ROOSEVELT'S PHYSIQUE WILL PULL HIM THROUGH

NOTED SURGEONS EXPECT RECOVERY; POINT TO DANGER

Agree That Blood Poisoning Is Only Danger and Say That Is Small.

EXACT DESCRIPTION OF COLONEL'S WOUND

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.

THIS is an exact description of Roosevelt's wound:

The bullet entered the right breast one inch to the right and one inch below the right nipple. It ranged inward and upward four inches under a layer of flesh and muscles and lodged at the juncture of the fourth rib and the breast bone. The bullet did not touch the pleural wall.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Opinions of surgeons on Col. Roosevelt's condition and his prospects all took the hopeful side, without underestimating the dangers of infection. Their prognosis for recovery was based on the Colonel's fine physical condition and on the skill of the men who have him in charge. Everyone spoke with confidence of the professional ability of Dr. John B. Murphy to put a surgical patient on his feet if such a thing is possible.

Dr. George David Stewart of 1 West Fifth street, one of Mayor Gaynor's surgeons: Col. Roosevelt should not have made his speech. The wound seemed slight to him, no doubt, but there was danger of hemorrhage due to the exposure of one of the large blood vessels. He should have taken no risks. The bullet should have been located at once and drainage established as a measure of warding off or lessening the dangers of infection. So far as may be judged from Dr. Scurry L. Terrell's description, the Colonel is suffering from a flesh wound. The omission of the surgeons to remove the bullet indicates their opinion that an operation for it at this time is inadvisable. Sometimes, as when it is near vital organs it is better surgery to let it alone than to extract. That was the case with Mayor Gaynor. I judge there will be no difficulty in removing the bullet in this case whenever the surgeons think the patient ready for the operation.

Dr. George E. Brewer, another of Mayor Gaynor's surgeons: There is nothing I can add to the bulletins from Dr. Murphy. He states the case clearly and frankly. I think that is the last word on the subject.

Dr. Alexander Lambert, the Roosevelt family physician: The things to be dreaded are the effects of shock and the chance of complications. Col. Roosevelt was well equipped by his fine physique and perfect health to withstand a severe blow.

Dr. John A. Wyeth, head of the Polyclinic Hospital: Col. Roosevelt's power of physical resistance is so strong that I feel sure he will recover. I do not think his chances were a bit hurt by the speech he made after the shooting. I think Col. Roosevelt's condition presents good resistance to the dangers of infection. The dispatches indicate that the doctors in charge can safely handle Col. Roosevelt's wound.

St. Louis physicians and surgeons, when apprised by the Post-Dispatch Wednesday of the latest morning bulletin concerning Col. Roosevelt's condition, generally expressed themselves as agreeing with the conclusion of the Chicago surgeons that the condition of the wounded man was excellent.

Some of their expressions were as follows:

DR. WALDO BRIGGS: The figures in the bulletin are all right in every respect. If they are correct there can be no doubt that Col. Roosevelt's condition is perfectly satisfactory.

DR. MAX C. STARKLOFF, Health Commissioner: The bulletins are very favorable. The anti-tetanic serum gives positive assurance that Col. Roosevelt will not have lockjaw and there are no indications of infection at present. It is too early to say positively that there will be none, but unless such signs appear within sixty hours after the infliction of the wound we may reasonably assume that the patient is out of danger.

DR. ARMAND RAVOLD: The reports indicate that Col. Roosevelt's condition is excellent. It is possible that his temperature and pulse will increase as a result of the antitetanic serum, and while caution is necessary in such cases, there need be no great alarm. The administration of the serum often is followed by fever lasting from three to five days. The serum also causes hives in some cases. I anticipate no serious results in Col. Roosevelt's case, however, judging from the reports now at hand.

DR. CLEVELAND H. SHUTT, Hospital Commissioner: Col. Roosevelt seems to be making most satisfactory progress. The antitetanic serum absolutely insures him against lockjaw and I see no reason at present why other complications should arise. Infection, in such cases, usually appears within 48 hours, if at all, although there may be exceptions. It is, therefore, impossible to say at present that there is no danger. On the other hand, an increase in Col. Roosevelt's pulse and temperature is not necessarily a reason far alarm. Such consequences might follow the administration of the serum or might be due to the mere presence of the bullet as a foreign body.

DR. FRANK J. LUTZ: Col. Roosevelt's pulse, temperature and respiration are about normal. Judging from the bulletins, his condition is very satisfactory.

DR. O. G. GIBSON: Col. Roosevelt's condition does not appear serious to me at present. I would not even attach undue significance to an increase in his temperature and pulse. The fact that the injured rib is causing less irritation of the pleura than yesterday indicates that the mebrane surrounding the lungs is not harmed and that pleurisy need not be feared. Within the next day or two the physicians in attendance will be able to reckon accurately with the possibility of infection. I anticipate no trouble, however.

DR. JOHN YOUNG BROWN: The figures in the bulletins are about normal and I judge from them that Col. Roosevelt's condition is entirely satisfactory.

DR. ERNEST JONAS: All danger is past, to judge from this morning's bulletin. If, as we are told, the bullet lies outside the thoracic cavity, there is hardly any further occasion for anxiety. The chances of infection are now very slight. The anti-tetanic serum, such as was administered in this case, is regularly used, not only in cases of gunshot wounds, but in other accidents. Every patient in an accident case at the St. Louis City Hospital receives it as a matter of course, frequently before a member of the visiting staff has seen him.

DR. JOHN M. GRANT: A patient could hardly be expected to show better progress or a more satisfactory condition than Col. Roosevelt does. His pulse, temperature and respiration are normal, and I see no indication of serious complications.

DR. PAUL R. FLETCHER, member of the City Council and former army surgeon: I consider Col. Roosevelt's temperature, pulse and respiration absolutely normal for a man of his age, physique and temperament, and take the reports as indicating a very satisfactory condition. The fact that the leucocytes are not increasing shows that no battle against infection is going on. Those little soldiers of the blood are the first things to give warning in case of infection. When the army of them increases beyond a certain point, trouble must be looked for. I have very little fear of infection in Col. Roosevelt's case.

Recovery Regarded as Almost Certain by Hospital Surgeon.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 16.

Dr. X. O. Warder, consulting surgeon, Pittsburg and Mercy Hospital: Unless there be infection I see no danger and Col. Roosevelt should make a rapid recovery.

Dr. J. H. McClelland, consulting surgeon, Homeopathic Hospital: Since the bullet did not penetrate the abdominal cavity there is slight danger of serious results. We have many such cases in hospital practice and in the light of these I regard Col. Roosevelt's recovery as almost certain.

Ignoring Advice, Colonel Made His Speech Thicker

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.

COL. ROOSEVELT'S characteristic of acting unmindful of the advice of friends may have figured largely in saving his life when he was shot at Milwaukee, according to a story told last night by those who have been traveling with him.

When he had prepared his Milwaukee speech, it was shown to several men interested in his campaign. Every one of them was of the opinion that the address was too long and they advised the Colonel that in order to save his voice, he should throw out several pages of it.

Roosevelt told them he would read it again and if he saw fit would cut it down. He did read it again, but, instead of "trimming" it, added five additional pages. The extra sheets made 15 thicknesses when folded in his pocket and it is said these five pages may have checked the course of the bullet sufficiently to prevent the wound from becoming a fatal one.

JOHNSON LIKELY TO BE NAMED IF THE COLONEL DIED

Nomination Could Be Made by the Progressive National Committee.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—In the event that Col. Roosevelt died before the November election, the Progressives would likely name Gov. Johnson, the candidate for Vice-President. The Progressive National Committee could make the nomination.

No Federal statute is provided for such a contingency. The law, in fact, takes no cognizance of a party candidate until he is elected.

Progressive party Electors, as well as the Taft or Wilson Electors, can vote for whom they please as far as the law is concerned. The obligation of an Elector is moral, not legal.

If the Progressives, in case Roosevelt died, decided not to nominate any candidate for the presidency, but go to the polls and elect Roosevelt—Johnson electors, the men so elected could vote for Taft, Wilson, Debs, Johnson or anybody else they saw fit to support.

It has been the custom of the two old parties to provide for the nomination of a candidate to take the place of one that retires from the race. The National Committee is empowered with selecting candidates. The Progressive Committee could act in this case.

The general impression here, among Progressive leaders, is, that Gov. Johnson of California would be named to lead the Progressives.

If the Progressive National Committee did not care to take the responsibility of naming a candidate it could call the delegates to the August Progressive convention together. A mass meeting of Progressives could designate some man for whom the Progressives could vote.

No Effect on Election, Says Acting Democratic Chairman.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Judge Martin J. Wade of Iowa, speaking for the Democratic National Committee in the absence of Acting Chairman Davies, said, regarding the attack on Col. Roosevelt:

"Every true American must feel regret at the attack on Col. Roosevelt. It is awful to contemplate that prominent men are always in danger of assassination by these poor, demented fellows. Of course, the attack will have no effect, one way or the other, on the election. No one will be foolish enough to give it any political significance."

Corns removed in three minutes with Dr. Wooster's Corn and Bunion Remedy.

Germans Need No Summer Gardens.

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—There are only two permanent amusement parks in Germany. The German public does not patronize this sort of enterprise, partly because of the large number of fetes and fairs held every year.

Wilson to Cancel Dates

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 16.

GOV. WOODROW WILSON late last night announced that he would cancel his speaking engagements with the exception of those arranged for Thursday and Friday of this week, until Col. Roosevelt is able to take an active part in the campaign. The Governor will speak in Delaware, West Virginia and Pennsylvania this week, concluding his campaign in Pittsburg Friday night.

Gen. Wood Says Attacks Show Dangerous Spirit.

VANCOUVER BARRACKS, Wash., Oct. 16.—"I was shocked and grieved to learn of this attack on Col. Roosevelt," said Major-General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the United States Army, today.

"This class of attacks upon prominent men is becoming discreditably frequent in this country and indicates a dangerous spirit of lawlessness. They are a menace to society and good government.

"Timidity and hesitancy in handling the men who commit those outrages on the part of public officers, is responsible for the occurrence."

"Red blotches all over face itched so I could not sleep"

NEW York, N. Y., July 28, 1912.—"About six months ago red blotches appeared all over my face and body, which itched so I could not sleep. The trouble first began on my face, and then on my arms, and on parts of my body. It was very itchy, and burning, especially at night. I tried many salves and medicines to clear my blood, but they only drove the sores from one place to another. I was ashamed to go out in the street. I saw an advertisement for Resinol Soap and Ointment, and sent for a sample. I used them and they helped me enough to assure me they would cure me, so I bought some Resinol Soap and Ointment, and in a short time my face and body were again clear and cured." (Signed) Mrs. Mary Case, 104 E. 108th St., New York City, N. Y.

Doctor said to use Resinol

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 3, 1912.—"I had a terrible pimple rash break out on my face, and very sore and itchy and awful in appearance. My doctor told me to use Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment, which I did, and with more than success. The results were wonderful, and I was completely cured in three weeks." (Signed) Mrs. C. Have Color in Your Cheeks —Be Better Looking— Try Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

These Olive Tablets oil the bowels—yet have no oily taste. They are a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil.

If you want a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause. Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

REEDY WANTS COOK, ON FARM, OFFERS MUSIC AND AUTO

May Have to Put in Moving Pictures to Compete With Attractions of City Life.

POETIC APPEAL IN "AD"

Rural Home Regarded Favorably, Except That It Is So Far From Film Shows.

HELP!

"We may live without poetry, music and art.
We may live without conscience and live without heart;
We may live without love, we may live without books,
But civilized man can not live without cooks."

I want a cook who can cook cookably for a fat man and his frau. Just plain cooking for plain folks—on male side of the house. No chef de cuisine I crave—just a cook. Mild and gentle disposition preferred. Out on the farm, close to nature. Cuckoo of a place for a cook. Pay, anything short of a Wall street campaign contribution. Victrola in the kitchen; records of all classic operas. Picture shows accessible by automobile. Call up Mrs. Wm. Marion Reedy, Webster 373M, or Mr. Reedy, Bell Main 2147; Kinloch, Central 745. Come on, ye cooks.

The country home of William Marion Reedy on the Manchester road between Webster and Kirkwood is still cookless, despite the seemingly irresistible appeal of the accompanying want ad, which has been appearing in the St. Louis newspapers.

Phonograph records with Caruso on one side and Dockstader on the other, the lowing of several different kinds of kine and the opportunity to see the plowman homeward plod his weary way are counterbalanced by lack of moving picture shows within plodding distance.

Mail Is Burdened.

The only result of the advertising this far has been to burden Reedy's mail with replies. He suspects that some of these were not written by cooks. This one, for instance:

"My dear Mr. Reedy.—I like the mandolin better than the phonograph, but this would not keep me from taking the place if you have good references. As to using the automobile I would not want it more than one afternoon and two evening a week. In the city I go to the picture shows oftener than that, but I suppose one must make sume sacrifice in the country. I think my cooking would be plain anough to suit you, though the folks I am now living with prefer their oysters scalloped. Send me a check for a month's salary and carfare and I will be there a week from next Wednesday."

"Ask for Big Mary."

Another answer, which seems to be from a genuine cook, reads thus:

"I like the job. I will take it. Send the automobile to the address which is on the slip of paper in this letter. It is in the rear on the third floor. Ask for Big Mary."

But, unfortunately, perhaps for her, perhaps for the Reedy family, Big Mary was so eager to get the letter through the mails that she forgot to put in the slip of paper showing where she lived.

Has a Literary Bent.

A cook with a literary bent writes:

We may live without mirrors, powders and puffs,
We may live without laces and ruffles and ruffs,
We may live without hobbles, panniers and tubes,
But we can't shake the movies to live with the Rubes.

Another reply was:

"Dear Sir—I like the country, all but one thing, which is cows. I always get so scared when I see a cow that I can't do any more work all day. If you keep a cow where I can see it before the breakfast dishes are washed, I will take the place for $19 a month. Otherwise my price is $18 a month."

Reedy is thinking of installing a moving picture show in his barn to lure cooks to his country estate.

BARR & WIDEN COMMERCIAL AGENCY CO.

Is Not the Agency Involved in the Suits Filed Last Saturday.

The Barr & Widen Commercial Agency Co. (a corporation), the agency that has for the past 30 years been so well and favorably known to all the merchants of St. Louis, and the one that publishes the St. Louis Credit Guide, and monthly sheet, and that furnishes special credit reports to all the leading and best business concerns in the city, is not the agency against whom several suits were filed in the Circuit Court last Saturday. The agency is in no manner interested in, or in any way involved in those suits.

The suits were filed against the Barr & Widen Mercantile Agency (an unincorporated concern), which operates a collection business outside of St. Louis entirely.

The Barr & Widen Mercantile Agency asks the public to suspend judgment on the charges contained in the petitions filed in those cases, until they have had their day in court.—ADV.

DEPOSITIONS TAKEN IN KOBUSCH SUIT TO RECOVER $300,499

Former Car Company President Alleges Bank Charged Him Usurious Interest.

WITNESS FROM FRANCE

Makes Special Journey Here to Give Principal Testimony.

Depositions in the suit of George J. Kobusch, former president of the St. Louis Car Co., against the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. for $300,499, alleged to have been paid in usurious commissions, were taken Wednesday at the office of Special Commissioner Jesse McDonald in the Third National Bank Building.

The suit has been pending about a year and a half and once was taken out of a jury's hands by Judge Muench, who declared no jury could be expected to decide the intricate financial questions involved. The judge then appointed the special commissioner. John S. Leahy is attorney for Kobusch, while H. S. Priest represents the trust company.

Kobusch alleges that between 1905 and 1910 he frequently borrowed money from the trust company and that, besides the regular 6 per cent interest, he was compelled to pay an additional 3 per cent to obtain the release of his collateral security.

L. M. Lyon, an attorney and promoter of Paris, came from France to testify and was the principal witness examined. He testified in regard to having acted as agent for Kobusch in transferring stock of the San Antonio Water Power Co. to the banking firm of Maas & Mouls, of Antwerp. The deal was completed Jan. 1, 1910. Lyon testified, whereupon he sent a cablegram to Kobusch outlining the terms. Kobusch accepted. Maas & Mouls, Lyon said, then sent the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. a duplicate of the cablegram, but added a list of men whom they desired as directors of the San Antonio concern. Breckenridge Jones, president of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., being included.

Lyon said he met Jones at the Belmont Hotel in New York City in July, 1909, when Jones was on his way to Europe. Prior to the meeting, he said, he had received a telegram from Kobusch instructing him to collect $1500 in fees from Jones.

Lyon said when he asked for the money, Jones replied that he did not know anything about it. Jones later paid the money after an exchange of telegrams with Kobusch, Lyon said.

The witness testified that he understood then Jones was on his way to Europe in connection with the transfer of stock to Maas & Mouls, but said he later was informed by Kobusch that the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. had no further connection with the proposed transaction.

Maas & Mouls took 13,500 shares of stock for $782,500, Lyon said, with the stipulation that one-third of the amount be paid imediately, and the remainder within a year. The firm insisted that Jones be included in the directorate, Lyon said, and when he asked the reason an official of the Antwerp firm asked: "How do you expect us to trust Mr. Kobusch when Mr. Jones spoke of him as he did?"

Lyton testified that he was paid a commission of $6500 for making the deal, but that his total should have been $25,000. His inability to collect the full commission was one of the things that brought him to St. Louis this time, he said.

DEFENSE MOTIONS LOST AT SECOND E. G. LEWIS TRIAL

Judge Charles A. Willard of Minneapolis Decides He Will Preside.

The second trial of E. G. Lewis on a charge of using the mails to defraud began in the United States District Court Wednesday before Judge Charles A. Willard of Minneapolis, who came here to try the case.

As soon as the case was called Attorney Barclay, on behalf of Lewis, asked that the jury panel be excused while he presented two motions. When the veniremen had departed he presented the motions, both of which Judge Willard overruled.

The first one attacked the jurisdiction of the court. Barclay contended that the September term closed when the court was adjourned indefinitely at Cape Girardeau Tuesday, and that this term of court, called the September term, is irregular.

Willard replied that the work of the different terms so overlaps that to sustain such a contention would make it almost impossible to transact business.

Barclay's second motion objected to Judge Willard himself. Willard replied that formerly when a Judge disqualified himself as Judge Dyer had done in this case, it was left to the Circuit Court to select a Judge in his stead. Since the Circuit Court has been abolished, Willard added, the District Court could not take upon itself to disqualify any Judge in such a contingency as this.

Barclay then filed a motion to quash the jury panel on the ground that it is illegal. He argued that the law requires 300 names in the box from which the jury list is drawn; that included in the box for the present jury were names of Maries County voters; that Maries County was not in this district at the time the crime is alleged to have been committed, and that therefore there were not 300 qualified jurors' names in the box.

Judge Willard overruled this contention also. He said the jury had not been summoned to try this particular case, but to try any case that might come before it. He said the defense would have the right to exclude jurors from Maries County.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, four or five women summoned by the Government and A. E. Radert, expert accountant for the Department of Justice, were in the court when it took a recess at noon.

FREE BRIDGE BONDS ARE TO BE VOTED ON IN NOVEMBER

Measure to Submit Proposition at Regular Election Passed by House 20 to 3.

HAS BEEN BEATEN TWICE

Two-Thirds of All the Ballots Cast Will Be Required to Carry.

By a vote of 20 to 3, the House of Delegates Tuesday night passed an emergency bill to submit to the voters at the November election a proposition to issue $2,750,000 of bonds to complete the free bridge.

A two-thirds majority of all votes cast at the November election will be required to carry the bond issue, according to a ruling by City Counselor Walther.

The experience at former general elections has been that a great many voters neglect voting on bond issues and constitutional amendments. There are nine amendments to the State Constitution, and two amendments to the city charter to be voted on, in addition to the bond issue.

Are Not Hopeful.

Mayor Kreismann and City Counselor Walther are not hopeful that the bond issue will be approved under these conditions. If one-third of the voters should fail to vote on the proposition it would be defeated.

If there should be 150,000 votes cast for the presidential candidates in the November election it would be necessary to have an affirmative vote of 100,000 on the bond issue to carry it, under the ruling of the City Counselor.

The bond issue to complete the bridge has been twice defeated in special elections. The House of Delegates voted to submit it a third time after it was discovered by City Counselor Walther that 15 days' notice, instead of 20 days, was sufficient under the law.

The House of Delegates had passed last Friday night a bill to submit the bond issue at some future date, but an emergency clause providing for its submission at the November election failed to get the two-thirds majority necessary to pass it.

Delegate Hall of the Twenty-first Ward moved a reconsideration of the emergency clause. He explained his vote by saying that his conscience had troubled him since he had voted against submitting the proposition.

"I feel that by my act I disfranchised my constituents and the people of St. Louis," Hall said. "I believe in the rule of the people, and to bring about that desired consummation I now cast my vote 'aye' on this bill."

Delegate Methudy, who has been against the resubmission of the bond issue, also voted for the bill. The three members who voted against it were Delegates Hale, Loeffel and Ebrecht.

TO SHORTEN HONEYMOON

Police Field Day Interferes With Patrolman's Plans.

Patrolman Roger J. Harty, bugler in the cavalry branch of the Police Department, will have to cut his honeymoon from a month to four days because he is to take part in the athletic exercises of Police Field Day at American League Park Saturday. He was married Tuesday to Miss Clara M. Bernar of 603 Hornsby place.

Harty met Miss Bernar two years ago when he saved a man from a mob of irate citizens at Union and St. Louis avenues. The man had attacked a little girl and a crowd had him surrounded when Harty appeared and rescued him. Miss Bernar witnessed it. Harty was given a gold medal by the Police Board.

New Clothing on Credit Plan Benefits Everybody.

The new credit plan for clothing introduced by the Hoyle & Rarick Clothing Co., 810 N. Broadway, will be of untold benefit to everybody who is anxious to dress well and who want to make a tidy appearance on a small income. In fact, no money is needed at all to get a complete outfit—a stylish suit, shoes and hat—or whatever is needed for the family man, women or children.

The new system permits the complete outfitting without the payment of one cent deposit. You can get an entire outfit—shoes, hat and suit—for $15, or you can afford on payments of $1 per week, or payments may be made monthly if desired.

The H. & R. Co. is one of the most progressive credit stores in St. Louis. They control a large chain of stores and buy in enormous quantities, which enables them to sell at low prices. This and their liberal treatment of patrons at all times has given them a reputation second to none. The new "no money needed" system will be of great benefit to deserving shoppers.

A Great Sale of Coats

In retail merchandising, no matter how big your stocks, how complete and extensive the assortments, there is always some one particular line that, for the time, stands out more forceful and attractive than the others.

For Thursday (tomorrow) we direct attention to 2 lots of Coats which we believe have so much all-around merit as to take "first place," so to speak, in the eye of every prospective Coat buyer.

$22.50 and $25.00 Coats for $15.00

And you're not confined to just 2 or 3 cloths and 3 or 4 styles. You'll find practically every popular coating material in this one lot and in fully 25 styles.

Chinchillas, two-toned wales, Bannockburn tweeds, plaid-back coatings, dual mixtures, zibelines, nub cheviots, wool velours, boucles, kerseys, broadcloths; in all the soft Autumn tones and the staple blues and blacks. Coats with storm collars, belted Coats, English "slouch" Coats, 3/4-length London Topcoats, "swagger" Ulsters, with "Napoleon" revers and storm collars, etc., etc.; all sizes and not a Coat in the lot worth less than $22.50; in Thursday's special sale.. $15

$15 Chinchilla Coats, $7.90 All Sizes.

Warm, Roomy and Serviceable

Come in gray, brown, black and navy; belted back, some with self storm collar, others with collars and cuffs of contrasting color broadcloth. Also dual mixtures and chevron stripes.

He's After Your Money

The merchant who tries to twist you away from what you first ask for and offers "something just as good" or "more for the same money" does so because he makes more money on the sale.

THAT'S HIS INTEREST.

Yours is to get the real quality you are after. You know you can't get something for nothing and you can't get a pure medicinal malt whiskey at less than Duffy's sells for.

You also know that when one's health is in question nothing but the best will do.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is a medicinal preparation of the highest order. It is made from perfect, sound grain, all carefully malted. Diseased or imperfect grain cannot be malted. Repeated distillations are resorted to to remove the injurious by-products such as tannin, acetic acid, fusel oil, etc., leaving nothing but the soul of the grains, giving to the product that healthful benefit so necessary for medicinal use. The process is costly, but the results obtained are worthy of the outlay.

It may enlighten you to watch every transaction you have with the merchant who practices

MRS. ROSENTHAL SAYS HUSBAND HAD DEAL WITH BECKER

Widow of Murdered Gambler Testifies That She Knew of Business Transactions.

HAD TO BE HERMAN OR ME

Describes Scene When Place Was Raided, Says Lieutenant Was Then in the House.

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The State called Mrs. Herman Rosenthal to the stand today in an attempt to trace through her the alleged partnership between Rosenthal, the murdered gambler, and Police Lieutenant Becker, who is on trial for the crime.

Mrs. Rosenthal was dressed entirely in black and wore a flowing veil of crepe. Her face was pallid as she took the oath, but she stepped to the witness chair without assistance, sat down and folded her hands in her lap. With a quick glance over the men in the jury box, she faced Assistant District Attorney Moss, ready for the examination.

"Were you the wife of Herman Rosenthal?" asked Moss.

"I was," she replied.

Mrs. Rosenthal said she had seen Lieut. Becker several times, once at the Elks' Club last Thanksgiving Eve, and again on New Year's Eve at the same place.

"Did you hear the conversation between your husband and Becker?"

"I did not," she replied, almost in a whisper.

New Year's Eve Meeting.

"At the New Year's eve meeting," she continued, "Mr. Becker came over to our table and put his arm around Herman's neck. Mr. Becker asked, 'Well Herman, how is things?' 'Not very well,' Herman said. 'Don't worry,' Mr. Becker answered, 'everything will be all right.'

"Then Mr. Becker turned to me, and said that he was ready to do anything for my husband at any hour of the day or night. He said he would always be at my husband's service."

Mrs. Rosenthal said she knew that Becker and her husband had "business transactions," and that she had learned their nature from Lieut. Becker at her home. This was about the middle of last April, she added, when Becker had caused a raid to be made on her husband's gambling place. Becker was in the house at the time, she said.

Hammered on the Door.

"I heard a hammering on the door, and went down to let them in before they broke the door in. I couldn't find the key, and went upstairs to see Mr. Becker.

"I said to Mr. Becker, 'For heaven's sake, what does this mean?' Mr. Becker said, 'It had to be Herman or me.' Then I went down stairs with him, and said, 'Don't let them break down the house. Don't let them destroy my furniture.' He said, 'Tell Herman that debt is off. I'll go down and tell that man to call it off, as Herman and I are square, and he doesn't owe me that $1500.' I said, 'What man?' He said, 'Never mind what man. Herman knows.'"

Mrs. Rosenthal told of having seen her husband pass money to Jack Rose, Becker's alleged collector, and said Rosenthal left scarcely enough money to bury him.

She Is Cross-Examined.

Her cross-examination then began.

"Was Rose a partner with your husband in the gambling business?" asked McIntyre.

"Yes, until early in March or the last of February."

Questioned as to Rosenthal's relations with Rose, Webber and others were stopped by Justice Goff, who ruled that they were leading and incompetent.

"Were you at a meeting between your husband and Harry Vallon a month before your husband's death, when your husband refused to shake hands with Vallon?" asekd McIntyre.

Justice Goff excluded the question.

"Did you know of a plot to assault your husband, planned when Rose, Webber, Schepps and Sam Paul were present?"

Whitman objected to the question, was sustained by the Court, and McIntyre excused the witness.

THREE SUNDAY SCHOOLS IN KEEN COMPETITION

Lafayette Park, Scruggs Memorial and St. Paul's Methodist Run Close Race.

The contest which began the first Sunday in Ocober between Lafayette Park, Scruggs Memorial and St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Sunday Schools is showing some interesting results.

St. Paul's School has excelled in bringing in new scholars, with 77 to its credit, Scruggs Memorial 24, and Lafayette Park 32. In the matter of collections, however, Scruggs Memorial is far ahead with a per capita contribution of $2-3 cents; Lafayette Park 31-3 cents, and St. Paul's, 2¾ cents.

Next Sunday the superintendents of these three schools will exchange places. George W. Hall, superintendent of Lafayette Park, will be at Scruggs Memorial, Philip W. Stremmel of St. Paul s will be at Lafayette Park and Alexander H. Robbins of Scruggs Memorial will be at St. Paul's.

Past exalted ruler N. Y. Lodge B. P. O. E., one of the most widely known Elks in America, says:—
"Tuxedo has made it possible for thousands of men to enjoy a pipe. Tuxedo does not bite or burn and can be smoked all day long."
Edward J. Talty

Tuxedo will Win Your Favor—as No other Tobacco Can.

Tuxedo Tobacco has made pipe-smoking popular among the most prominent men in America today—leaders in the various professions—because it makes pipe-smoking possible to them.

Well-known lawyers, doctors, ministers, lecturers, actors, singers, writers and others, testify that Tuxedo Tobacco exerts a soothing influence on their throats, and affords them the highest degree of enjoyment.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Pipe Tobacco

Zane Grey, famous sportsman and author, says:—
"Tuxedo is an ideal camp-fire companion. It's the sportsman's best friend."
Zane Grey

Tuxedo cannot bite or sting—cannot irritate the mouth or throat in the least. The mild, tender, choicest Burley tobacco exclusively used in Tuxedo, is so skillfully treated under the "Tuxedo process," that it burns slow and cool, and retains all its mildness and natural fragrance.

Tuxedo has a host of imitators. But there's only one Tuxedo. Smoke the original!

MERCHANTS ON SOUTH BROADWAY TO PARADE

100 Autos and 3 Bands Will Advertise Business Houses of That Section.

One hundred automobiles and three bands will parade Wednesday, Oct. 23, when the merchants of South Broadway will stage a revival carnival for the purpose of stimulating new activity in that section of the city.

The South Broadway Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association met at Broadway and Geyer avenues, Tuesday night, to form plans for the parade and for "Bargain week," which will commence Oct. 28. Members of the United South Broadway Merchants also attended the meeting. It is contemplated to combine the several organizations into one central body.

A mass meeting of all South Broadway merchants is to be held Friday in the Lafayette Bank Building where a joint committee representing the three organizations will be appointed to raise funds so as to insure the success of the celebration.

"Gee! That ZEMO Feels Good, Ma!"

For Prickly Heat, Pimples, Blotches, Blackheads, Eczema and Dandruff, ZEMO Is a New Wonder.

At last, a remedy for skin tortures that makes everybody smile and say, "Hoo-ray, I've found it at last!" ZEMO is really extraordinary, as any man or woman can prove immediately at a cost of only a few cents. If you have prickly heat, eczema, irritated or inflamed skin, blotches, pimples or blackheads, you will marvel at the results of ZEMO after a few applications.

You can't realize it until you have used it. Get a 25-cent bottle first, to prove to yourself conclusively that you never heard of or bought anything like it in all your life.

ZEMO gives instant relief, pain disappears, sores and rashes leave you. When you apply ZEMO, it sinks right in and disappears. Then, behold, your skin troubles vanish! A few applications of ZEMO will stop dandruff.

ZEMO is absolutely safe. It will make your skin feel as balmy as a June morning. Try it after shaving, it gives the skin a treat.

ZEMO is sold in 25-cent and $1 bottles, or sent direct, on receipt of price, by E. W. Rose Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo. Try a 25-cent bottle, and when convinced, get a $1 bottle, which contains six times as much as the 25-cent bottle.

ZEMO is sold in St. Louis and guaranted by all druggists.

TWO SUSPECTS ARE ORDERED ARRESTED IN AUTO ROBBERY

"Micky" Lynch Taken From Hospital for O'Meara Witnesses to Look at Him.

INFORMATION IS HELD UP

Circuit Attorney Wants Written Confession Before Action Against Driver of Car.

"Micky" Lynch, alias Sullivan and Smith, was taken to police headquarters from the city hospital, Wednesday morning, to be looked at by witnesses of the O'Meara auto bandit robbery of last Thursday morning. Ray E. Stevenson, the chauffeur, whose car was used by the robbers and who drove it at the time, has told the police that one of the men in the car was called "Micky."

"Micky" Lynch was arrested Saturday night, but was suffering from alcoholism and was sent to the hospital to be treated before an attempt to identify him was made. He is said to have been a hanger-on at a saloon in East St. Louis where the O'Meara robbery plot is believed to have been hatched.

Wednesday a general order was issued to the city detective force to arrest "Red" Simon and "Buck" O'Neil, suspected in connection with the robbery.

Released From Prison.

These men also have loafed about the saloon and are friends of "Micky" Lynch. Stevenson's description of the man called Micky by his companions in the automobile is said to fit the suspect.

Simon was released from the penitentiary near the end of August. Detectives found in Stevenson's room on South Broadway a postcard which Simon sent from the penitentiary, announcing that he would be out in a few days and would see Stevenson in St. Louis.

The police believe that Simon arrived here several days before the murder of William Hufnagel, which took place Sept. 10.

The unexpected action of Circuit Attorney Jones in holding up the information charging Stevenson with robbery in the first degree has surprised Chief of Detectives Allender.

Although Jones said Tuesday evening that he had talked the matter over with Allender, the Detective Chief Wednesday said he gained no impression from the conversation that the formal charge was to be delayed.

Stevenson has made verbal admissions that he was the driver of the auto which the auto bandits used in the $3000 O'Meara robbery. He also faces a previous charge of embezzlement by bailee. He is accused of marrying Mrs. Nellie Philpot Stevenson to rob her of $8000. Jeptha D. Howe, Jones' brother-in-law, is Stevenson's attorney in that case. William E. Fish is his attorney in the new case.

Information Drawn.

When the detectives presented their case against Stevenson to Assistant Circuit Attorney Rudolph Tuesday, Rudolph did not hesitate to draw the information. His chief, however, ordered him not to file it.

Jones explained to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he took this action because he was not satisfied with the evidence against Stevenson. He directed Allender to get a written confession from him if possible.

The information against James Lynch, asked for at the same time, was drawn and filed. Allender Wednesday gave instructions that if the Sheriff called to take either Lynch or Stevenson in charge, he was to be asked to confer with the police. The police are anxious to hold the two men for further questioning.

Harry Koch, who was arrested in East St. Louis in connection with the police investigations of the O'Meara case and the Hufnagel murder, was released. Witnesses said they could not identify him.

BOYS FIND BABY, BURY IT

A fresh mound of earth on a lot at Second and Ashley streets, behind the big Ashley tenement building, was called to the attention of Patrolman Holdenried by Frank H. Scherman of 1437 North Eighth street, Tuesday evening. The policeman found it to be the grave of a newly born babe.

Tony Wolert of 1525 North Eighth street and Charles Bart of 1517 North Eighth street, each 14 years old, told the police they had found the body on the lot and had buried it.

D. R. FRANCIS JR. AND WIFE LIVING APART, HOME SOLD

Announcement of Transfer of Property Reveals Nearly Year and Half Separation.

AT HER MOTHER'S HOME

Young Broker's Wife Expected to Be in St. Louis Within the Next Few Months.

The announcement Wednesday that the home of the David R. Francis Jrs. at 4448 Maryland avenue, has been sold, reveals what has been known to close friends for sometime, that the broker and his beautiful and accomplished wife, have been living apart for nearly a year and a half.

Mrs. Francis has not been in St. Louis, her friends say, since the early summer of 1911. She is now in Salem, Mass., at the home of her mother, Mrs. Charles Coulthurst, where she has been for the last year, with the exception of a few weeks spent at Pinehurst, N. C.

In this year's directory, issued last May, the address of D. R. Francis Jr. is given as 4421 Maryland avenue. This is the residence of his father.

The announcement of the sale of the D. R. Francis Jr. home stated that the purchasers, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Porter, were having the house entirely redecorated and painted, and would take possession Nov. 1. The Porters now live at the Westmoreland Hotel.

Friends of young Mrs. Francis say she is expected to be in St. Louis some time in the next few months, but has not decided where she will stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis were married in 1901. In 1910, early in the spring, the wife went to her mother's home and made such a prolonged stay that her friends mourned her absence from local social activities.

In 1911, when she went to her mother's home, she sent her little daughter here and the child stayed at the Francis residence for some time, then returned to the mother.

Mrs. Francis is known not only for her beauty and culture, but for her accomplishments as a musician. She is a finished pianiste, and her ability in this line was generally commented upon.

The strong attachment existing between young Mrs. Francis and her mother-in-law has been remarked by the acquaintances of both. Mrs. D. R. Francis, the mother of six sons, has no daughter of her own.

David R. Francis Jr., then a recent graduate, first met Miss Sally Coulthurst for the time when the Francis family was on Shorby Hill. Miss Coulthurst, R. I. Their marriage took place June 12, 1901, under a large tent on the lawn of the Coulhurst home. Many well known Eastern society people, and a number of Yale men, classmates of Francis, were in attendance. They occupied the Francis mansion for a time after their return to St. Louis, and after the elder Francises returned, made a home of their own. They moved into the house at 4448 Maryland avenue several years ago. It was one of a row of fine homes built by David R. Francis and rented or sold to young couples socially prominent.

When asked about the matter Wednesday, David R. Francis Jr. said, "McNair and Harris sold the house." He would not comment on the significance of the sale as relating to him and his wife.

SEEKS TO BREAK WILL OF BROTHER LEAVING $250,000

Mrs. C. B. Ryan Alleges in Suit That He Was Unduly Influenced.

Whether Mrs. Caroline B. Ryan's acceptance of bequests under the provisions of the will of her brother, Frank E. Bradford, defeats her right to contest the will, is one of the issues made by the defense in the suit brought by Mrs. Ryan to set aside the document on the grounds of undue influence. The case went to trial in Judge Hitchcock's court Wednesday.

Bradford, who died Feb. 18, 1909, left an estate worth about $250,000. After making small bequests to relatives and friends he provided in the will that the residue of the property be held in trust by Robert Rutledge, real estate dealer, the income from which should be paid to certain beneficiaries.

Income From Property.

These beneficiaries are Mrs. Ryan, who, according to the will, gets the income from property belonging to the estate at the southeast corner of Eighth and Pine streets, and Alanson D. Brown, president of the Board of Trustees of the Third Baptist Church, and James S. McClellan, who holds the same office in the Delmar Avenue Baptist congregation.

Brown and McClellan, as such officers, by the terms of the will, receive the income from the remainder of the estate for the benefit of the Baptist Orphans' Home of St. Louis.

It is provided that the trusteeship of Rutledge or his successor shall continue until after Mrs. Ryan's death and until the youngest of her children has attained legal age. She has four children. The will also provides that Mrs. Ryan's interest in the estate shall be free from control of her husband, Alfred D. Ryan.

According to the petition in the case Bradford at the time he made his will was not of disposing mind. It is further alleged he was influenced by Rutledge, who, it is stated, was the testator's confidential friend and business adviser.

One of the bequests in the will provided that Mrs. Ryan should receive a pair of diamond earrings which had belonged to her mother and also all of her brother's books. Further, it was provided she should be released from all debts owing her brother. Because of her acceptance of the earrings and books and acknowledging her release from obligations to her brother, besides accepting other emoluments under the will, the defense contends she is stopped from attacking the validity of the document.

In a deposition of Rutledge taken before Special Commissioner A. F. Hebard, the deponent denied that he influenced Bradford in disposing of his property. He admitted that Bradford frequently visited the Rutledge real estate office and sat around, like other men of leisure, he said.

JUDGE SALE TRIES TO SETTLE COLE ALIENATION SUIT

Commissioner Would Adjust Claim of Young Wife on Husband's Uncle.

An attempt to settle the Cole-Cole $50,000 alienation suit out of court was begun Wednesday by former Judge Moses N. Sale, commissioner in charge of the taking of depositions in the case.

Judge Sale, who when on the circuit bench reconciled several couples who came to him for divorces, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he was not undertaking in this case to bring John Jackson Cole and his young wife together, but merely to bring about a settlement of the young wife's damage claim against John Jackson Cole's uncle, Dr. Ernest H Cole.

"Life is too short for such suits," Judge Sale remarked.

Dr. Cole and Mrs. John Jackson Cole were at Judge Sale's office in the New Bank of Commerce Building at 10 a. m., with the lawyers in the case, ready for the resumption of Dr. Cole's testimony.

A negro man and two negro women witnesses in the case, also appeared at the office. They were witnesses for Dr Cole, it was understood. Dr. Cole said, in giving his deposition Monday, that he had obtained affidavits from negroes in the neighborhood of Beaumont and Pine streets, where he said he had watched for his brother, Amedee B. Cole, and had taken about 40 photographs.

Instead of resuming his testimony, Dr. Cole went to the office of his lawyer, J. M. Lashly, and remained there for an hour and a half, while Mrs. John Jackson Cole went to the office of her lawyer, Arthur N. Sager, and held a prolonged conference with Sager.

It was announced that a recess would be taken in the hearing until afternoon.

NEAR-DROWNING AS MOVING PICTURE IS BEING TAKEN

Actress Is Seized by Cramps After Being Thrown in Meramec River as Heroine.

SINKS TO BOTTOM TWICE

Then "Hero" Accomplishes Actual Rescue Just "in the Nick of Time."

A rescue from drowning in the raging Meramec, staged at Valley Park as a motion picture thriller, became a real rescue, and made a film which its owner describes as a "crackerjack," when Flora Dorset, the heroine, suffered an attack of cramps in the chilly water.

Ike Schlank, manager of a film concern in the Century Building, took his performers, the heroine, the hero and the villian, and a motion photographer to Valley Park Monday morning. Dr. Crossy accompanied them. He always goes along, Schlank says, when there is any element of danger in the plans for a new film.

"This ought to be a good one," the manager declared to his companions, as they sped westward on a suburban train. "The name of the play is 'Secret Service Steve.'

"Steve is a Government secret service man," he continued, "and patrols the St. Lawrence River to keep a watch for smugglers from the Canadian side. He is in love with the heroine."

"I gotcha," commented Steve, who gets his mail and his pay checks under the name of Randolph Gray.

Heroine Was Nervous.

"The villian, Steve's rival, takes the heroine out in a canoe," Schlank went on, "and when they are where the current is strongest, he demands that she marry him. She refuses, and he deliberately capsizes the canoe and swims ashore, leaving her to drown."

"Do I wear a life preserver?" asked Miss Dorset nervously.

"Certainly not," said the manager. "You forget that Secret Service Steve is in hiding on yon bank, ever alert to thwart his wicked rival. He plunges into the mad torrent, and brings the fainting fair one safe to land."

"How deep is the St. Lawrence—I mean the Meramec?" Gray made haste to ask. The manager said he understood the depth was about 3 feet at the point chosen for the picture. This relieved all the members of the party considerably.

Arriving at Valley Park, they went to Harry Arnold's boathouse, and preliminary views, showing "Steve" in hiding on the bank, were shown. Then, under the lens of the clicking machine, the villain pushed the reluctant heroine into the canoe, paddled out into midstream, and began making love.

Scene Became Realistic.

As she replied with the gestures signifying a violent and unalterable "Never!" the villian turned the canoe over. He felt the pebbles under his feet, and made the motions of swimming as he walked on the bottom toward land.

Both he and "Steve" saw that the heroine was struggling in the water, but they thought this was merely good acting, and the hero thought it best to let the struggle go on for a moment before going to the rescue. Then he heard Miss Dorset scream, saw her go under the water, and plunged in after her. She came up and went under again before he reached her. When he got her to the bank, she was unconscious, and it took a half hour's work by the physician to revive her. After she was revived, she said the water had chilled her so that she lost the use of her muscles.

The work of restoring the heroine went into the film, making it fully twice as realistic.

MOOSERS, BOTH CITY AND STATE, TO GO ON TICKETS

Unanimous Decision of Supreme Court Sweeping Progressive Victory.

NAMES TO BE CERTIFIED

Roosevelt Party Leaders Anticipate No Further Attempts at Interference.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 16.—By the unanimous decision today of the Supreme Court of Missouri all Presidential electors, State, city and county candidates nominated by the Progressive party are entitled to places on the official ballot to be used in the November election.

The decision of the court, handed down by Chief Justice Leroy B. Valiant, was a sweeping victory for the Progressive party, every contest being decided in its favor.

The decision means:

That the 18 Presidential electors nominated by petition by the Progressives will be certified to all county clerks by Secretary of State Cornelius Roach, along with the Republican and Democratic electors.

That all State candidates nominated in the same manner will, in like manner, be certified to county courts by the Secretary of State.

Must Accept City Ticket.

That the Board of Election Commissioners of St. Louis, under a peremptory writ of mandamus issued by the court, must accept and file the Progressive city ticket.

That the county court of St. Francois County must accept and file the Progressive county ticket.

The decision is so sweeping that Progressive party leaders anticipate no further attempts to interfere with their ticket. The action against the Progressive party ticket was taken at the instance of the Republican State Committee, which caused to be instituted in the Circuit Court at Jefferson City an injunction suit against Secretary of State Roach to restrain him from accepting and filing the Progressive State ticket.

Judge Wurdeman of the Circuit Court of St. Louis County, sitting as special judge at Jefferson City, decided in favor of the Progressives. The Republican State Committee ordered an appeal to the Supreme Court. The Court advanced the case on the docket, hearing arguments Monday, so that it could render its decision in time for the certification of the tickets to the county clerks.

The two Republican members of the Board of Election Commissioners of St. Louis refused to accep the nominations of David T. Punch and Harry Wilson, Progressive candidates for the Legislature in the Sixth St. Louis District. The two Democratic members, Joseph P. Jamison and R. Perry Spencer, voted to accept the nominations.

The Progressive party leaders applied to the court for a writ of mandamus to compel the board to accept and file the nominations. Spencer and Jamison filed a separate return to the suit, declaring that they were ready and willing to accept the nominations, and believed they should be accepted.

Order to Board.

The court's order directing the acceptance of the two Legislative nominations is in effect an order to the Board of Election Commissioners to accept all Progressive party city nominations, just as the decision in the St. Francois County case is in effect an order to the county officials of all counties to accept the local nominations of the Progressive party.

The Supreme Court also issued a writ of mandamus against Secretary of State Roach directing him to file the name of Frank H. Farris as Democratic presidential elector at large. The Democratic State Committee undertook to remove Farris on the ground that, being a member of the Legislature, he was ineligible. Farris contended that he had vacated his seat as a member of the Legislature by removing to another county. He formerly represented Crawford County in the Legislature, but recently removed to Phelps County.

LOOKING TOWARD WINTER

With October come plans for the fall and winter season.

Additional employes are needed in many businesses.

Extra helpers will be necessary in many homes.

Households are looking for houses, flats, apartments.

The rush season will soon be at its height in the manufacture and distribution of many lines.

Rearrangements and readjustments of businesses present opportunities of various kinds.

Getting settled for the new season means demands that affect landlords, tenants and agents.

All this activity of the autumn will be reflected in the Want Columns.

To keep posted, to be in touch with opportunity, watch the Post-Dispatch Wants carefully.

St. Louis' one big Want Medium!

Why? Because, for instance last week, it printed nearly one thousand more of the people's popular wants ads than appeared in the Globe-Democrat and the Republic combined.

Follow the crowd. They know a good thing when they see it.

Phone your wants. Your credit's good if you rent a phone. Call Olive—8800—Central. Or you may leave the ad with your druggist.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

Back to the Balkans

(Nearly every European-bound ship is carrying Greeks, Servians, Roumanians, Bulgarians, anxious to return to their homes and enlist for a war with Turkey. News item.)

By JAMES E. CRAIG.

NO more the swarthy Hellene will shine the rusty shoe.
The task of young Demetrius must dusky Sambo do.
The hand that spread the polishine has found a nobler work—
Demetrius has packed his kit and gone to fight the Turk.

AN Irishman named Clancy now is working in the mine,
Since Vladoj laid his pick away and started for the Drine.
"No Montenegrin son," said Val. "in pit or shaft should shirk;
His duty to his country is—I'm off to fight the Turk.

YOUNG Georgeovitch the Servian no more will dry the prune.
His hamlet by the Danube's tide will welcome him full soon.
"De pruneovitch is good to make," said Georgie with a smirk,
"But better 'tis a corpseovitch to make out of de Turk!"

AND Ruschuck's off to Belgrade with the others of his ilk.
He's sold to Isaac Cohenstein his transient trade in silk.
Instead of bolts of colored cloth he totes around a dirk
A-honing for a chance to try the weapon on a Turk.

NOR Dobruz the Roumanian with us remains to toil
And draw his pay check weekly in the works of Standard Oil.
His fingers are just itching for an early chance to jerk
A saber from its scabbard and to spifflicate a Turk.

BUT All lights a cigarette and murmurs, with a shrug,
"Tis fun to fight the Balkans but 'tis more to sell the rug."
He stays here and he sells it to the magnate and the clerk—
And everyone who buys it wishes he might swat a Turk!

WOMAN FRIEND OF KIMMEL TESTIFIES FOR HIS SISTER

Gives Description of Missing Banker and Says He Was "Very Handsome Man."

Mrs. Andrew J. Hunt of Wichita, Kan., close friend and confidante of George A. Kimmel, was placed on the stand in Judge Grimm's Court Wednesday as the first witness in support of the suit brought by Mrs. Edna K. Bonslett, Kimmel's sister, against the New York Life Insurance Co., on two $10,000 policies on Kimmel's life. Her testimony went over most of the ground covered when she testified in the Federal Court suit, which resulted in a hung jury.

Mrs. Hunt testified to an acquaintance with Kimmel, beginning when she and her husband resided next door to Kimmel, in Omaha, in 1889, and continuing until he disappeared from Arkansas City, Kan., where he was cashier of the Farmers' State Bank, in July, 1898. She said that, although Kimmel confided in her and her husband, he told them nothing that indicated that he intended to remain away from Arkansas City more than two days. She has never seen or heard from him, she testified, since she saw him at breakfast in the Gladstone Hotel in Arkansas City the morning of July 29, 1898.

Asked by Attorney F. H. Bacon to give a mute description of Kimmel at the time of his disappearance, Mrs. Hunt replied:

"He was 5 feet 10 inches tall, had dark eyes, almost black, very dark brown hair, short mustache, weighed 165 pounds, and had an olive complexion. He had fine, square teeth and a deep heavy voice. His habits were good."

She added that he was a "fine looking man," a description to which Attorney Bryan objected.

WAR ON LONG HAT PINS

Boston Mayor Would Limit Length of Them to Six Inches.

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—Women who delight in fancy hatpins which project far beyond the brims of their picture hats, to the imminent peril of every harmless man who chances to be within scratching distance, have, in all probability, but a short time longer in which to indulge their taste, for Mayor Fitzgerald is on the warpath against them.

The Mayor stated today that he would send to the next meeting of the City Council the draft of an ordinance limiting the length of hatpins to be used by women on the streets and in public conveyances to six inches. The Mayor's action is the result of numerous complaints from those who fail to appreciate the beauty of the projecting hatpin.

A WARNING TO MANY

Some Interesting Facts Regarding Health Statistics

Few people realize to what extent their health depends upon the condition of the kidneys.

The physician in nearly all cases of serious illness, after making chemical analysis, knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly, the other organs cannot be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. According to health statistics, Bright's disease, which is really an advanced form of kidney trouble, caused nearly ten thousand deaths in 1910, in the state of New York alone. Therefore, it behooves us to pay more attention to the health of these most important organs.

An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

The mild and healing influence of this preparation is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of cures.

If you feel that your kidneys require attention, and wish a sample bottle, write to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper and they will gladly forward it to you absolutely free, by mail.

Swamp-Root is sold by every druggist in bottles of two sizes—50c and $1.00.

FACE A SIGHT WITH TETTER

Began With Pimple. Spread All Over Face. In Agony All the Time. Itched and Smarted. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Was Cured.

Moberly, Mo.—"My trouble began with a small pimple on the left side of my face and it spread all over my face and to my neck. It would be scarlet red when I got warm. My face was a sight. It looked very unpleasant and it felt uncomfortable. My face was something awful; it just kept me in agony all the time. Some said it was tetter, and some said it was that awful eczema, but I rather think it was tetter. I had been troubled with it for about two years and tried many remedies but got no relief until I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment.

"When I would wash my face with the Cuticura Soap and apply the Cuticura Ointment it would cool my skin and draw great big drops of matter out of the skin. You would think I was sweating; it would run down my face just as though I had applied it. It itched and smarted and I suffered in the day time most from the heat from the stove. I used the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment for a month and I was cured of it. I will tell everyone I know who has any trouble of the skin." (Signed) Mrs. J. Brockner, Apr. 15, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold throughout the world. A single set is often sufficient. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

All Toilet-Tested men should use Cuticura Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

OLD WATCHDOG IS STOLEN

Pet Missed More Than $200 Worth of Stolen Jewelry.

After serving as a night watchman faithfully for 12 years at the home of Herman Juelg, 2920 Wyoming street, a white poodle allowed himself to be carried off by burglars Tuesday evening. Jewelry valued at $200 was also stolen.

The burglary occurred while the family was absent. Juelg told the police he had raised the poodle from a puppy and that it is now 12 years old. It had always been a good watchdog, he said, and he would rather recover the pet than the jewelry.

WORK FOR THE BRIDGE BONDS.

By the wise action of the Municipal Assembly last night the city will be given an opportunity to vote on the free bridge bonds at the November election.

For the first time St. Louis will pass upon the bond issue at a general election. It may be assumed that the opponents of the bridge project, who have twice defeated it at special elections, will exert an organized effort to defeat it once more. It remains for those who favor the measure to exert the same means.

Civic pride and sound judgment may be relied on to carry the bond issue if the attention of all the voters is specially called to its importance. We urge upon public-spirited citizens and upon organizations the duty of working for the bonds, and the work should be begun at once.

Gov. Wilson's retirement from field campaigning on account of Col. Roosevelt's disability proves that there can be chivalry in politics.

A WISE COUNSEL.

A chauffeur writes the Post-Dispatch that the worst troubles of auto drivers are caused by persons who carelessly cross the streets between crossings. Undoubtedly this is true, and it emphasizes the suggestion of the grand jury that pedestrians cross streets only at crossings.

While pedestrians ought not to be forbidden under penalty to cross streets anywhere except at crossings, there is no doubt about the wisdom of following this suggestion. Many accidents are caused by pedestrians suddenly stepping in front of vehicles between crossings.

Traffic regulations are made to enable large numbers of persons to use the streets with the least danger and friction. If both pedestrians and drivers would pay attention to the traffic officers and the traffic rules downtown accidents would be reduced to a minimum.

The only argument of the politicians against the commission charter in East St. Louis is the incredible one that it might give the town as unsatisfactory a government as it has at present.

EGOTISM AND CRANKS.

John Schrank's deed will probably call attention to the very large number of partially irresponsible people that are at large in this country. Assassination and attempts to assassinate are so often manifestations of an unbalanced mentality that they always shock men into at least a passing consideration of the crank world that surrounds us. It is amazingly offensive in the United States, and its proportions are alarming to sociologists and scientists. Everyone knows half a dozen cranks who approach perilously near to insanity. They are not quite crazy, but it would be safer for society if they were. It is never certain what they will do when excited, and in their sanest moments they are bores of the most excruciating order.

Science has not yet drawn the line between the crank and the madman, and the consequence is that the modern world swarms with social pests that are a menace to the moral health of mankind, and occasionally even to physical safety. But in most cases a close study and a clear analysis of the crank mind will show that egotism is the disturbing factor in the obnoxious mentality. To think continually of one's self and of nothing else is not enlightened selfishness; it is rather the path to the asylum. To be absolutely self-centered means to have ultimately no center at all.

If Kimmel's statements under the influence of ether are accepted as embodying essential truth, why not try the volatile test on trust magnates and campaign contributors under cross examination?

PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGNING.

The shooting of Col. Roosevelt by a maniac should induce serious consideration of the wisdom of abandoning campaign tours by presidential candidates and junketing trips by Presidents.

Presidential candidates of leading parties attract vast throngs of people wherever they go. There is danger in the very crowds. Frequently they are mobs pressing for a view, or a hearing, or a handshake, regardless of consequences to themselves or others. Weaker persons are crushed and trampled in the rush. The distinguished man who carries the burden of campaigning for his party is imperiled. He is the victim of campaign committees who want to bring out to public view the evidence of his personal popularity, and who resort to every possible device to swell the masses of people who meet him and follow in his train.

In the heat of a stirring campaign partisan excitement is aroused to the highest pitch. Great popular demonstrations in the presence of a magnetic leader intensify the excitement. It works like madness on weak minds. Those who are inclined to emotional excesses and insanity are so wrought upon that they are likely to do desperate deeds.

The physical and mental powers of the candidate are usually strained. And to little purpose. The futility of this dangerous and wearying campaign method emphasizes the arguments against it.

Great popular demonstrations offer the worst conditions for effective campaigning. They are not favorable for reasoning. They do not permit rational discussion nor induce deliberate and thoughtful conclusion.

Only a small percentage of the voters see the candidate, and a smaller percentage hear him. He appears at his worst instead of his best. The Wilson demonstration here was magnificent in numbers, but the program and conditions gave him no opportunity to obtain a satisfactory presentation of his cause. He was worn out by attempts to speak at similar demonstrations on his journey to St. Louis. He could give only fragmentary speeches.

The principal means of effective campaigning is the presentation of the actual views and arguments of the candidate on the vital issues of the day. This can best be done through the press. For the purpose of presenting the views of a candidate a comprehensive address delivered anywhere, or a carefully written statement, published in the daily press and in periodicals, is better than a host of disjointed talks to big crowds. It reaches millions where only thousands can hear speeches at the largest demonstrations.

With the perfecting of telephonic, telegraphic and postal facilities, and the cylinder press supplying copies of newspapers and periodicals for the whole country, the personal campaign, with its mob demonstrations, its dangers and disadvantages, is obsolete. It should be relegated to the political junkshop. Let us have campaigns of reason and deliberation.

If Gov. Wilson's chivalrous retirement from the stump during Col. Roosevelt's period of enforced quietude shall lead to saner methods the Milwaukee crime will bring some compensation.

Mr. Taft has the show, but no ballyhoo man, says Secretary Nagel. Is not the Secretary too modest?

RUINOUS MILL TAX FIGHT.

The United Railways' resistance to the mill tax will go into legal records as one of the most fatuous as well as prolonged and costly instances of litigation ever known in this country. In an almost interminable series of suits in both Federal and State Courts, the company has literally been defeated at every point. Arrears in taxes for ten years with penalties and interest now amount to a staggering and dismaying sum, but as Judge Shields said in deciding the latest case for the city, the traction magnates who permitted the accumulation are alone to blame.

It must be apparent that it has all got to be paid some day. Why prolong further the day of cumulative embarrassments? End the ruinous fight, pay at least the current tax which is mounting up at the rate of thousands every month, and reduce as rapidly as possible the aggregate in delinquent tax and its burdensome interest charge.

When the plain people nominate a man at the primaries they do it mainly with ballots and not with dollars, as appears by Wilson's comparatively small primary expenses. It is only the politics of privilege and bossism that costs money.

SMOKE PALLS AND TUBERCULOSIS.

Papers containing a great deal of data on the harm smoke palls do were prepared for the recent Washington Congress on Hygiene and Demography by Prof. Raymond C. Benner and Dr. William Charles White of Pittsburg University. Much research work on this subject has been done in Pittsburg in recent years. Among all the "smoky cities" it is said to be the most favorably located for investigations of the sort because of its high hills and deep valleys.

Soot, sulphur acids and arsenic in smaller quantities are among the most deleterious substances in city smoke. Prof. Benner finds that the way vegetation is affected is through the corrosive action of the acids and the clogging of the plant stomata by soot, stopping transpiration.

Aside from damage that can be repaired, though at large aggregate cost, by cleansing smoke causes building stone, especially the more easily worked varieties, and metals to deteriorate. Railroad and trolley car steel of the 85-pound type may lose a pound a year in weight when laid in smoky cities, but hardly a quarter as much in other places.

By obscuring the sun and accentuating unfavorable weather conditions, smoke affects the health, but Dr. White found some rather paradoxical conditions when he studied the influence of smoke palls on people. He declares most confidently that they do not increase consumption. In guarded language he even conveys the astonishing idea that the phenol in the soot may destroy tubercular organisms in the air and, further, that smoke drawn into tubercular lungs may, as is shown by the deposits of carbon particles revealed in anatomical studies around healed tubercular foci, actually assist healthful granulation.

In beginning an inquiry into pneumonia, such baffling facts were faced as that St. Louis, with a smoke pall, and Mobile, Ala., with none, have the same death rate from the disease. But the final conclusion is that smoke palls are a most important factor in increasing the deadliness of the disease. The influence on this and other respiratory diseases alone furnishes a sufficient incentive to work for the abolition of smoke palls.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Mullanphy Fund.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch

Somebody has written recently to the Post-Dispatch about the successful building system used by the Mullanphy board. In answer I will say that the princely Mullanphy never intended that one cent of his fund should be used in building houses in St. Louis.

But now that we are listening to the cry "Back to the Country," for the last 5 years, I believe it would be nearer the idea of Mullanphy if this fund was loaned to reputable persons to start farming even in Missouri or westward in sums of $1000 and upwards at 2 per cent enough to keep the fund in existence. I believe that scheme would be nearer Mullanphy's desire than the present one and a goodly number of families who are in poverty in St. Louis today would be successful farmers.

JOHN McNAMARA.

Street Corner Bad for Boys.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I extend to your paper my hearty thanks for your assistance in having police to attend to my complaint in clearing corners at Taylor and Cottage avenues. I also wish to answer "One Who Knows," letter in Monday's Post-Dispatch by saying there are many better places for boys to amuse themselves than the street corners, such as their homes, churches, theaters and plenty of organizations who would be pleased to have them come. As "One Who Knows" admits, there is a real tough gang there and if these good boys associate with them, it will eventually lead them into being real toughs, and causing their parents worry and themselves dire results.

Also my thanks to captain of Deer Street Station.

TAYLOR AVENUE RESIDENT.

Boy Chauffeur Will Show Moongazer.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In answer to Mr. Moongazer, I would like to ask who do the streets belong to? While waiting for cars, these Moongazers stand in the streets although the walk is made for them. Many times I have skidded my rear wheels in order to stop for a moongazer who had stepped from behind a wagon and was looking the other way; of course there was a narrow escape and I got a good bawling-out for burning a dollar's worth of rubber from my tires. I was also "recklessly speeding and too young to drive a car" (I am nineteen).

If a pedestrian would stop and look at a crossing as we are required to do by law and a traffic policeman there would be fewer accidents. The speed of machines is greatly mis-judged by pedestrians as they do not sit before a speedometer all day as we do, so they call twenty miles per hour, thirty. They cannot justly judge speed. In a certain city an auto can go 25 or 30 miles an hour between cross-streets, but must slow down at the crossing where all the people must cross the street.

If Mr. Moongazer will meet me any afternoon about 4:30 at Twelfth and Washington, I will show him our side, by riding him down Washington to Fourth street.

WM. E. WOODS,

The Near Side Stop.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It is said the "near side" stop of street cars was invented to prevent accidents to vehicles. Why should the people be made stand out in the middle of the street in danger of automobiles and all sorts of vehicles in order to prevent accidents to vehicles? Are vehicles more valuable to the State than our people?

Why Wilson Should Win.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Every American voter should vote for Wilson for President at the November election. It is a chance of a lifetime. One Republican, a pensioner well-known here and elsewhere, said this morning that he "wanted to see Wilson elected and the Senate and House Democratic." Wilson is well-informed and an honest statesman; not contaminated with corruption funds. I think that all true American voters should vote for a clean man. It is so evidently clear that all parties are disgusted with the Roosevelt and Taft (or trust) policies, it should be an easy matter to choose and avoid the evils. I cannot see for my life how a true and honest patriot could vote other than for Wilson. Every Democrat should go to the polls and cast his vote for Wilson. This is one and the only chance (or the best) to redeem this nation the clearest I ever saw and I have voted since 1860 and do most earnestly hope that Wilson will be elected. It certainly would go far to educate Americans. Why should any voter vote against the welfare of his loved ones at home? Let the people rule.

VOTER.
Bell City, Mo.

Candidates in the Tenth District.

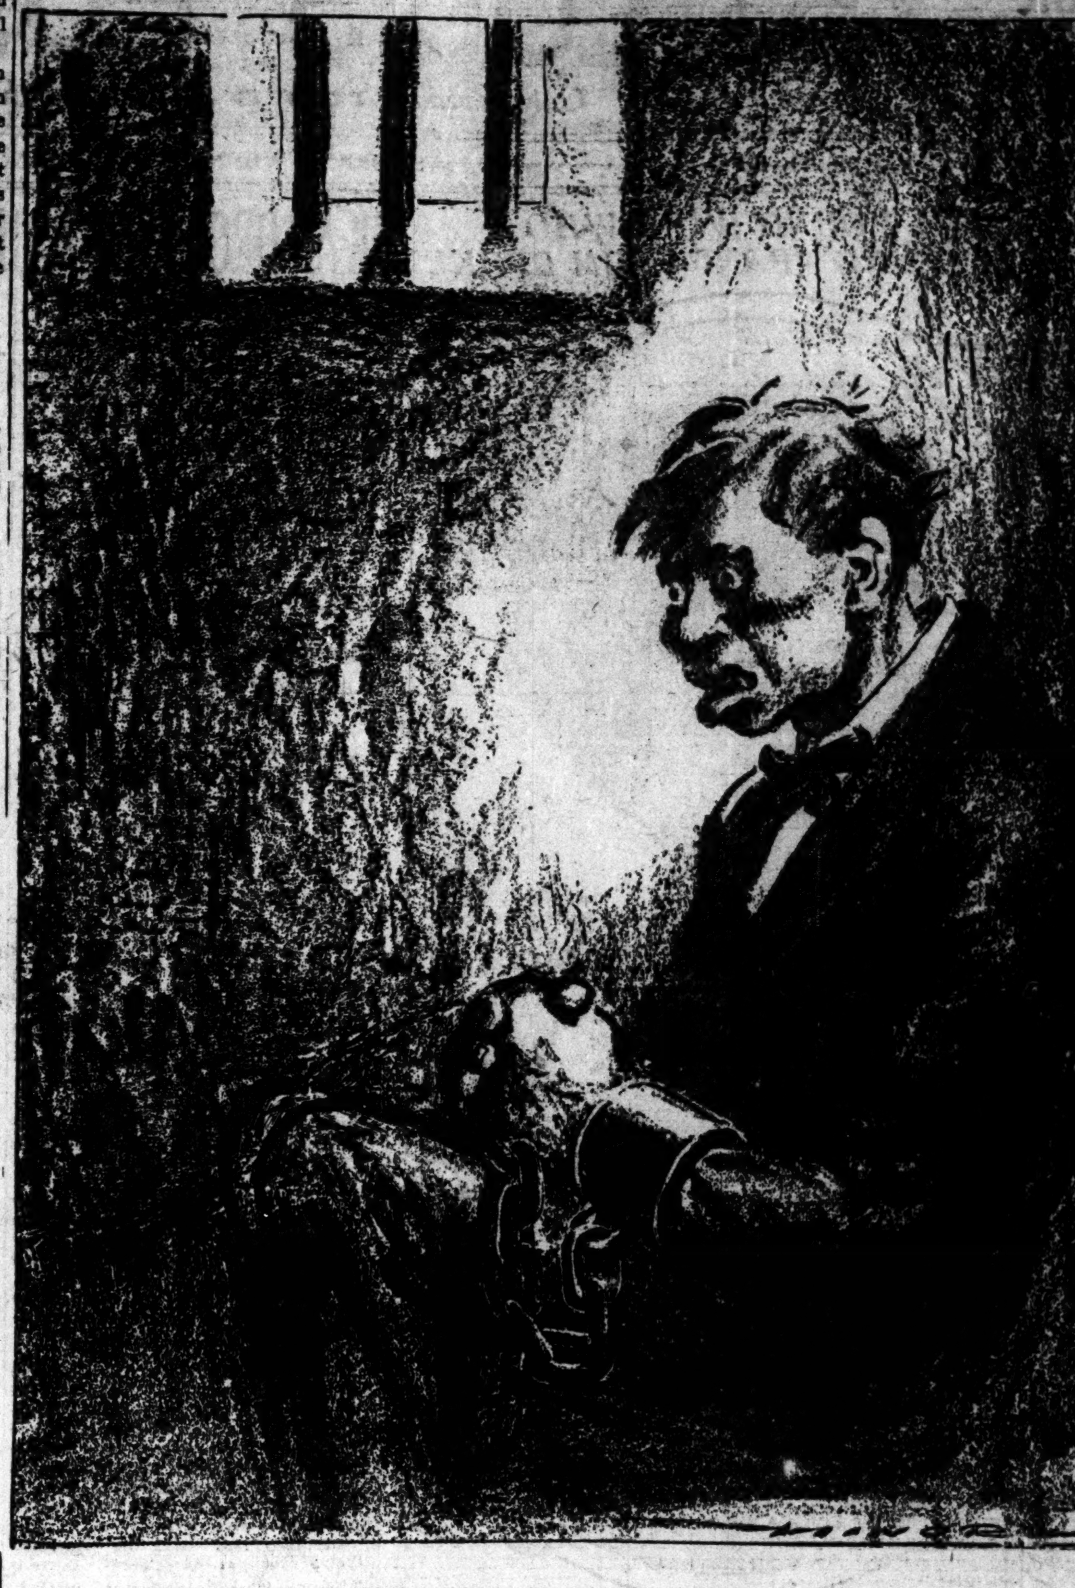
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In reply to the letter of Mr. Tresenriter, I, as the candidate for the office in question, would like you to publish this letter. Mr. Tresenriter says I am not a suitable man for the place, but does me a great injustice by not saying why I am not. Will he please answer the following questions:

If I am not a suitable candidate. Why? What reason does he or any Democrat have to offer for not voting for me? Why does he refer to me as a weak man? Will he explain the difference between a weak and strong candidate? Will he say why a strong man would not take up the fight for the principles of our party before this time? Is a man really strong who is only willing to take up the fight after the battle is won? Is a man weak who was willing to take up the fight when there was no hope of victory and spend his time and money to bring it to a successful termination when no strong man was willing to do what he has done?

He speaks of the place being filled by anyone who offered. He should remember that I was nominated at the primary election by my party and that my vote was increased by a greater per cent than any other portion of the city. Of course that was because of my weakness. Or it might have been because I made a primary campaign. I know Dr. Seibert and can say that he is one of the best men in the city. If he is elected he will make a good representative, and anyone who votes for him, in my judgment, will make no mistake so far as the man's character and ability is concerned. And as to Mr. Bartholdt, so far as I know, he is a refined gentleman. He is well educated and one of those good Germans who always does well and acts honorably and honestly on all occasions. While I differ in my political ideas from these gentlemen, yet I must say that I feel proud to be in the campaign with them. I am trying to make this a gentleman's campaign. However, the voters should keep in mind the fact that it is not men, but principles they are voting for. I am making a campaign on political principles and I am not seeking political or business prestige by climbing over the fragments of any man's character.

M. O'CONNOR.



THE GREAT AMERICAN PROBLEM.

AN APPEAL TO ST. LOUIS.

From the Moberly (Mo.) Democrat.

It cannot be denied at the present time that a large part of Missouri does not feel as loyal to or as proud of St. Louis as they ought to do. We do not believe there is a city in the United States that has as large and valuable territory, ever increasing in productive value and which can never be superceded or surpassed by developments elsewhere on the entire globe, and therefore she ought to be the greatest interior city on the continent. She ought to have the entire State as her most earnest, ever faithful advocate. Every one knows this is not true now. Now is the accepted time for her to get in line with all the State, politically.

We would not urge this proposition if office getting and holding was, as in the days of old, the acme of politics. The day of principles and progression, the day of intelligence and honest thought and action is apparently at hand, therefore no more fitting time could there be for this city to join in with the Democratic forces of this year and help bring about an era that will put St. Louis and the State of Missouri in the front rank of states and cities. Why not get into the popular procession, St. Louis, and get the benefit of the harvest?

It is conceded upon all sides that Woodrow Wilson will be the next President, and, therefore, the wise thing for St. Louis to do is to join in with the Democrats in state and nation and thus be able to command the support of all Missouri in making St. Louis what she should be, the most prosperous and progressive city in the Union.

PRAYERS FOR GEN. NOGI.

From the London Standard.

The action of the Rev. P. T. Bainbrigge, vicar of St. Thomas' Church, Regent street, in inviting his congregation to pray for the "rest in a place of refreshment and light" of the souls of Gen. Nogi and his wife is arousing comment in various circles of church life. "Mr. Bainbrigge admits," remarked a well informed authority on the question who is prominently associated with the English Church Union, in the course of an interview yesterday, "there is no authority to pray for non-Christian people, and in that admission he will be supported. There is no question as to the duty of Christians and of the practice of the church of Christ to pray for departed friends. On the other hand, suicides have been placed under a ban, inasmuch as the offices for the burial of the dead cannot properly be said over them. The words in the order of the service cannot be pronounced over those 'that have laid violent hands upon themselves.'"

True Helpmeet.

Mrs. Percollum: I know I'm your inspiration, all right, Percival. Whenever I mix a metaphor or make a little mistake in my grammar you turn it into a story and get pay for it.

Campaign Precaution.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

"Have you decided how you are going to vote?"

"Yes; but let's change the subject. There's no reason why you and I should not continue to be friends."

JUST A MINUTE.

QUATRAINS OF A DUCKSHOOTER.

THEY say the lion and the lizard keep
The courts where Jamshyd gloried and drank deep;
And Bahram, that great hunter—the wild ass
Stamps o'er his head, but cannot break his sleep.

Did he hunt ducks, do you suppose? If so,
What does it matter who may come or go,
How many asses stamp above his head,
Or how many roses in the world may blow?

Why should he wake from dreaming on and on
Of rosy vistas at the flush of dawn,
The soft mists rising on the wings of morn,
And the plaintive clamor of his call anon?

What does he care how many lizards run
The palace walls when he may dream the sun
Is rising redly from his bed of rest,
And the winds of morning have begun to run?

The breath of Autumn, and the world forgot—
Is that a bunch of ducks, or is it not?
Eh! What? Look over there! Get down! Get down!
Alas! too distant to afford a shot.

As I was saying, what does Bahram care
How many asses may be stamping there,
Or what goes on the while he dreaming lies
And ever contemplates that vision fair?

A little shooting, and the playful wind
Thrumming a ditty in the water grass—
Is it so funny that he doesn't mind?

THE COUNTRY.

The country is a large pastoral place where excess population is raised to meet the requirements of the very large cities. There being almost nothing to eat in the cities, and the cost of raising children being beyond what most people can afford, it is necessary to depend on the country. The country produces very fat, competent children, and at the age of 20 years or thereabouts they come to the city. For the first few years they work in subordinate positions at small salaries, but after they have been here a while their superior physique begins to tell, and they very soon have the narrow-chested native working for them at what they used to get.

There is a great deal said about getting back to the country, but it amounts to little. City people can't stand the work, and the country is doing very well anyway, thank you. It has never given us anything but the excess population which it raises for the purpose of keeping the cities up, and there are no waste lands that anyone wants. The country will look after us. It requires the city's great markets, and will see that we have population enough to keep them up.

"Are you on good terms with your brothers and sisters?"

"The best in the world. Our parents didn't leave any of us anything."

The Post-Dispatch Daily Short Story

The Fatal Letter

By Helen Disnay.

AS Jack crossed the office on his way to his desk, his eyes dwelt tenderly on Madge's nimble fingers as they traced what he felt sure was a note to him. Thinking to surprise her, he drew nearer, and suddenly the large writing on the sheet seemed to rise up and assail his eyes. With hurt horror he read:

"Dearest Ted:

"Of course I love you. Why doubt me? As long as I live, I'm yours."

He waited to read no further, but fled to the stockroom, where hidden behind the bales and boxes, he fought out his trouble and decided upon a course of action.

"My little Madge, whom I trusted with my whole soul," he groaned. Her falseness seemed impossible.

Who this fellow Ted was he did not know. It was enough that the girl he loved, and who had promised to marry him, was writing such a letter to another man.

At last he clenched his hands, and setting his teeth, went into the private office of the manager. Six weeks ago, he had been offered a position on the road, one that would pay him a much better salary, and had refused, not wanting to leave Madge. Now he was glad to go, and immediately, too. Without in two hours of his reading the beginning of that fateful note, he was on the train to take up the work of one of the commercial travelers who had suddenly been taken sick.

Jack did not stop to say good-by to Madge, nor did he write her, for he felt that the less said the better.

"Perhaps if I get away, this hurt will stop," he told himself; but although he kept busy and in his labors turned night into day, sending back so much business that the firm believed they had secured the model salesman, he could not forget Madge or her thousand and one appealing ways. It was all the harder because she kept on writing to him, in the same clear, flowing hand that had penned the fateful confession of her love for another, begging him to let her know the reason for his continued silence.

Tom, his chum, wrote him that Madge looked ill.

"She's awfully close," Tom went on. "Won't give us a squint at your letters, though I know she gets one per, if not oftener. To write her a love song that often, with all the business you're sending in, you can't be hitting the feathers at all. Write her to be less close, for we're all agog to know how you are wresting orders from the populace as you are. But, honest, boy, Madge is looking badly. I think she's crying all night long. Better blow in and try a little consolation, or someone else may. I'd like to, but I'm true blue where my friends are concerned, and so I won't ring in any of the comfort dope until I'm sure you're going to stay away forever and a day; but in case you do—well, I'll not let the grass grow under my feet. Madge is a dear girl."

Jack groaned as he read the friendly words, and knew that in between the lines was a hint that all was not well.

Things looked black to him, although he had made such a success in a business way that the office sent for him to come home and make a contract with the firm, and although he would have rather remained away forever, Jack obeyed, and once more found himself in the same city with Madge.

Being a salesman now, he managed to have his interview with the manager, without going out among old associates, and so avoided Madge, though a sight of her sunny hair through the open doorway turned him sick at heart. As soon as matters were settled he made his escape, although he knew that on the morrow he would have to meet the others, Madge among them, and receive their congratulations.

His business outlook was extremely bright, much better than he had dared to dream of for years to come, and yet it was a very heavy heart that he carried with him into the little motion picture theater, where he sought a few moments of relaxation later on in the evening. He and Madge had often gone there in the days when he believed in her, an it was with the hope of seeing her at a distance, and if possible discovering the identity of the hated Ted, that he went.

Wearily he made his way to the corner seat in the box where they had always sat. The house was lighted up, and he was conspicuous as he sat there, but he did not pay any attention to the audience after a sweeping glance over it had told him that Madge was not there.

Without interest, he gazed at a thrilling Indian story, not caring in the least if every white settler on the film was wiped out by the bloodthirsty savages. What was the misery of people long ago gone, if indeed they ever existed, to his, deprived of his flaith in his love?

Listlessly he followed the story of the next film. There was the usual quarrel between two lovers, although he reflected bitterly that neither had his cause. Suddenly he straightened up. The lover received a letter from the girl with whom he had quarreled, and it was photographed on the film.

"Dearest Ted: Of course I love you. Why doubt me? As long as I live I'm yours."

As on a former occasion, Jack stopped to read no further. He recognized the clear, flowing hand. It was Madge's penmanship, that he knew, but he also understood that it was never written to a living person. The thought flamed through him that there must be some heart-healing explanation. Realizing how his cruelty must have hurt her, he turned to leave, when in the seat by his side where she had sat so often was—Madge!

Instinctively his hand reached for hers, and in the tender pressure given and returned everything was forgotten and forgiven.

"I saw you here," she whispered "and came here to sit by you."

"Darling! How, though, did they get that letter? I saw you write it," he confessed, "though not intentionally."

"I wrote the scenario of the photoplay," she said with proper pride. They forgot the audience, sitting there together again in the happiness of their love, and he bent over and whispered:

"We'll be married tomorrow so you can go out on the road with me." Madge nodded happily. "Of course, for as long as I live I'm yours," she murmured, and this time the words carried a joyous message to him.

Love and Courtesy

By BETTY VINCENT.

A Disagreement.

L. A. writes: "I am 16 and a young man has been paying me attention for some time. But when we met several days ago he seemed rather cool, and I have not seen or heard from him since. What shall I do?"

The next time you see him ask him frankly what troubles him.

Wait Till of Age.

J. Z. writes: "I am 19 and very much in love with a girl whom I have known for three years. But I don't know whether she feels the same way. What do you advise me to do?"

Ask her if she cares for you. You need not marry for two years or so, when you will be of age.

Asking a Man.

L. D. L. writes: "I received an invitation to a party. My brother cannot accompany me on account of some special engagement. Would it be wrong to ask a young man to go with me? He has ceased calling on me, but still a good friend."

Certainly not. He should be complimented by your asking him, and will probably be glad to take you.

This Home-Made Cough Syrup Will Surprise You

Stops Even Whooping Cough Quickly. A Family Supply at Small Cost

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough instantly, and will usually cure the most stubborn case in 24 hours. This recipe makes a pint—enough for a whole family.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it.

You probably know the medical value of pine in treating asthma, bronchitis and other throat troubles, sore lungs, etc. There is nothing better. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co, Ft. Wayne, Ind.—ADV.

THE MAN ON THE ROAD

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By H. T. BATTEN

No. 2—The Missing Raiment.

"HAVE you met Joe Frankel, the poker fiend, this trip?" asked the coatpad salesman of a knot of traveling men who were waiting at the station for the noon express.

As none of the audience had, he proceeded to hold the floor.

"Joe can never resist the lure of his favorite game," he went on to tell them. "Last trip in he got tangled up in a game that nearly cost him his job. In the early part of the evening he tried to start a game in the smoking compartment, but there were not enough willing to play, so he went up ahead to his berth in disgust.

"About midnight a couple of the boys got on so they went into Joe's car to find him. Joe lost no time in getting into the game. As it was late and most of the travelers were stowed away in their bunks, Joe merely put on a pair of slippers and hustled back to the car behind where the game was to be played, clad only in his pajamas. It was a pretty hot night and the equipment he had on was about all that was needed.

"The game was a hot one, and ran far into the morning. When it broke up Joe found himself going into the Station while the car containing his clothes and samples had switched off at Albany and gone on to Boston. The boys gave him the laugh and left him in the car."

"How did he get out?" asked the needle drummer.

"Borrowed an oiler's suit along about noontime and made the trip to Boston in the smoker. When he got there he found his suit gone and the claim checks for his sample trunks. Guess Joe won't play much poker this trip. At least not on the train."

Potting Plants for Winter

OF course you desire to have some blooming plants for the long winter days, and I will tell you how to have them with the least expenditure of time and money. By the time this article appears in print the days of the outdoor plants will be over, and it is from these that you can get a supply to replenish your indoor pots for winter.

You should not use old plants, especially of the geranium (by far the best winter-blooming house plant), but only those which were grown from cuttings struck last spring and grown outdoors during the summer. Plants which were in the house and which were set out in the beds the past summer will be too much weakened to make good blooming ones the coming winter.

Those which were grown from cuttings last spring will hardly have reached the period of best bloom before the frost will kill them, but you must get them out of the soil and into the pots before they have been touched by the frost.

Select the small, stocky ones; those with plenty of branches, and take them up out of the beds with a ball of the soil about the roots, after the soil has been watered thoroughly so as to get as many of the fine, feeding, fibrous roots as possible. You are sure to tear loose quite a large number of these, and on this account, and also in order to make the plants more branching when potted up, cut each branch back to two buds or "eyes."

This will take the strain off the roots and allow them to remake the fibrous ones lost in taking from the ground and make the whole plant more branching

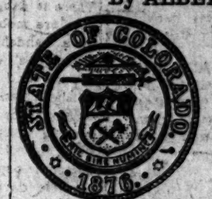
THE STORY OF THE STATES

COLORADO.
Motto: Without God; Nothing.

Written for the Post-Dispatch.

By ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE



YOU will search long through the United States maps before you find "Jefferson Territory." Yet it once existed; and but for a change, there would today be a state in the Union bearing the name of the "Declaration's" author.

In 1857 Colorado was a waste land, branded by Uncle Sam's experts as "uninhabited and uncultivatable," and containing the merest scattered handful of pioneers. Four years later it was a thriving, rich territory, with a dozen fast-growing cities and a population of more than 35,000. And the key that had opened the long-closed doors to immigration was the same that had opened those of California—the Key of Gold.

More distant and less rich tracts of ground had long since become settled and prosperous. But up to 1858 Colorado was left deserted. All its growth has come during the past 54 years. It takes its name from the Colorado River (in Spanish "Red Colored"). Prehistoric people who were cultured and civilized once lived there, as the ruins show. But they had long passed away before the earliest Spaniards entered Colorado.

The French passed it by and even the Spaniards left it practically unexplored until 1776, when Francisco Escalanto led an expedition there. But the explorers went away without troubling to make permanent settlements. Part of Colorado came to us with the Louisiana Purchase of 1803, and Mexico ceded the rest after the Mexican war.

Our Government sent out Lieut. Zebulon M. Pike in 1806 to make a map of sections of the "purchase." He reached the Rio Grande, and during his journey discovered a wondrous mountain peak more than 14,000 feet high. This peak was named in his honor.

Nearly a half century later that same peak became the goal of many a gold hunter. And "Pike's Peak or bust!" grew into a slogan—a challenge to fate. (Often it was a case of "bust." As in the famous instance of the wrecked emigrant wagon which bore that slogan and which broke down and was left to decay on the plains.)

Stephen Long made another Government trip in 1819, discovering the peak that bears his name, and reporting to the authorities that the region was hopeless for immigration. California gold seekers passed through without stopping. A Mormon colony halted for a year at Pueblo, then also passed on. It remained for John C. Fremont, "the Pathfinder," to traverse Colorado in 1842 and in 1844, opening it up to civilization and making a wiser, juster report of its grand possibilities.

Fremont's report was followed by the arrival of a few fur traders, who formed posts there. But the actual tide of population did not set in until (in 1859) gold was found not far from the present city of Denver.

And then, as in California's early boom days, money-madness did the rest. From 1859 to 1861 no less than eleven bustling cities sprang up, Denver among them. There was a flood of immigration. The wild days of gold-hunting and mining towns were lived over again. But the settlers had come to stay, and when the supply of gold slackened the wealth of silver and lead held them.

A State Constitution was submitted to the people in 1860. They rejected it and formed what they called "Jefferson Territory." The name was later changed to "Colorado."

During the Civil War troops from Texas invaded the territory to seize it for the Confederacy. But the Colorado men drove them out as a Indian war next wiped out one settlement after another. But the Indians, too, were conquered and the steady growth of the territory went on unchecked.

At length, in 1876, Colorado was admitted to Statehood; 1876 was "Centennial Year," and Colorado was called the "Centennial State." From 1860 to today its population has leaped from 34,277 to more than 800,000, and its mining towns have become prosperous and beautiful cities.

An Impertinent Question

CONGRESSMAN BUTTERWORTH was seriously ill for a long time, but recovered. When he was convalescent his personal and political friends called on him and tendered hearty congratulations. Big Joe Butterworth thanked his callers and said:

"Yes, boys, I was so near the other shore that I could hear the bells ringing a welcome to me."

"Were they fire bells, pop?" inquired little Frank.—Searchlight.

MAKES THE HAIR FLUFFY, LUSTROUS AND BEAUTIFUL IN A FEW MOMENTS

Girls! Get a 25 cent bottle of "Danderine" and try this. Also stops falling hair and scalp itch; destroys dandruff.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.—ADV.

GIANTS NOW SEEM TO HAVE A SHADE; MATTY IS READY

National Leaguers Prove They Have Found Batting Eyes by Knocking Out Wood and Tieing Series.

By HUGH JENNINGS,
Manager of the Detroit Tigers and Three-Time Winners of the American League Title.

BOSTON, Oct. 16.

JOHN McGRAW solved the problem that has been the principal block in the way of the Giants during the present series. The question was what tactics to adopt against "Smoky Joe" Wood's effective delivery. The result was that Wood was driven from the box in one inning, during which the Giants got to him for seven hits and six runs.

Charley "Sea Lion" Hall, who succeeded the smoke marvel, was also hit hard and the game ended with 11 runs to four in favor of the Giants.

This made it three victories for each team in the series. The deciding game will be played off here today. For the first time since the post-season series were inaugurated it will be necessary to play eight games to get the final verdict.

McGraw yesterday morning called a meeting of his players in his room in the Copley Square Hotel. It was known that Wood was to pitch and all hands talked over the best way to get "Smoky Joe." In the previous games that Wood pitched, the Giants tried to wait him out, their usual tactics. The result was two defeats. In yesterday's game they shifted and each man that went to bat in the first inning had instructions to hit the first good ball that Wood put over. That is part of Joe's pitching scheme, to try to get the first ball over the plate, thereby getting an advantage over the batter.

The new order worked even better than the Giants expected. Devore, first up, with one ball in his favor, hit to Wagner's left. Heinie tried to make the play with one hand when he could have grabbed the ball with two. The result was a base hit for Josh. Larry Doyle then took a crack at Wood's first offering and hit it over second for a base, putting Devore on second.

This unexpected onslaught seemed to have a bad effect on Wood. To my astonishment he took a long wind-up, which gave Devore and Doyle an easy chance to pull off the first double steal of the series and they did so. The throw was made on Devore and he was sitting on the bag before the ball got there. It looked to me as though this slip of Wood had the same effect on him as the balk made by O'Brien yesterday had on "Buck." Snodgrass hit the next ball pitched to right. Hooper made a good try for a shoetop catch, but did not reach. The ball slipped past him for a two-bagger and Devore and Doyle scored.

The next four men all took a rap at the first ball. Murray bunted for a sacrifice, advancing Snodgrass. Merkle put up a Texas Leaguer to left. The high wind caught the ball and blew it away from Lewis, who apparently made no allowance whatever for the strong wind. The hit was good for two bases, Snodgrass scoring.

MATTY WILL AGAIN BE OPPOSED TO BEDIENT

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—The climax of the baseball season came today in the eighth game of the world's championship series between the New York Giants and the Boston Red Sox. At stake on one game were the title of world's champions and the big end of the players' purse, the greatest in baseball history. Betting is at even money.

Hugh Bedient, the Red Sox recruit of only a season's standing in the major leagues, who last Saturday bested New York with the old master, Christy Mathewson, pitching, was groomed to take up the mound work for the Red Sox. Mathewson, it was expected by the New York supporters, would be asked by McGraw to assume again the some position for New York, making another pitchers' duel a prospect. McGraw kept Marquard in reserve.

Even Tesreau Knocks a Safe Drive and Assists in Scoring Two Men

HERZOG followed the plan of attack and hit to Wood, with the result that Merkle was run down, and put out on the line, Gardner getting the put out. Herzog got to second on the play, and tallied on Chief Meyers' stinger to left. Fletcher, still going after that first one, drove it to right for a base. The Chief got to third and Fletcher to second on the throw in.

Tesreau was the first one to break the new order by letting Umpire Evans call a strike on him. But the second one he drove at Wood so hard that the ball bounded off his glove to the third base line, and was scored a hit for Big Jeff. This tallied the Chief and put Fletcher on third.

Here the Giants' specialty, that worked well for them all last season, was pulled off. Tesreau started for second, and on the throw down he stopped half way. Fletcher, in the meantime, got so good a start for the plate that no attempt was made by Yerkes to throw him out. After Fletcher had tallied, Tesreau was retired by Wagner.

This ended Joe Wood. It is more than likely that if he feels like tackling the Giants again tomorow, the smoke ball artist will do the pitching in the desperate struggle that the deciding game is bound to produce.

The game was a great batting carnival for the Giants, and a great surprise for the Boston fans, who have been led to believe that Joe Wood was invincible, and that the Giants could not bat anyway. They smashed the ball for [illegible] hits for a total of 21 bases. Chief Meyers led in the fusillade. He got to bat four times, and got four hits. Larry Doyle was a very good second, with a home run and two singles. Everybody else, with the exception of Jack Murray, got one or more hits. Even Arthur Wilson, who had only one chance at bat, rapped out a beauty in the ninth, scoring Herzog.

Jeff Terseau deserves credit for all that has been said about his nerve and coolness under fire. Of course he had a good lead, but it was not so big that it could not have been pulled down. The Boston rooters die hard, and on several occasions when the Red Sox had men on the bases the fans arose in their might and tried in every way to rattle the big pitcher. But he never wavered in the slightest degree. At times his support was a trifle wobbly, but Jeff just went along about his work as though nothing had happened.

Forrest Cady, who played against Jeff in 1911 in the International League, tried on several occasions to get the big pitcher's goat. Tesreau paid no attention to him, but McGraw did, and said a few words to Cady that caused him to lay off Jeff for the remainder of the game.

The Sox got their first run in the second inning, when Gardner drove a liner to right center. The ball bounded over the low fence into the crowd and went for a home run. It was the first homer of the series.

In the third inning they had Hall on third and Hooper on second. Tesreau struck out Yerkes. Speaker then gave Josh Devore a chance to make a fine running catch similar to the one he made to win last Thursday's game in the ninth inning. Hall was late in leaving third, and was caught at the plate on Devore's fine throw to Meyers.

Devore played a remarkable game in the field. He got three fly balls, all made difficult by the high wind. Each of them, as they left the bat, were headed straight for Snodgrass, who called for the ball each time. But when the ball got up to the current, the wind carried it over to Devore's field. He had the ball perfectly judged.

The Sox didn't score again until the seventh inning, when Speaker singled and Lewis doubled. Speaker scored on Gardner's out, Fletcher to Merkle. Lewis tallied when Larry Doyle booted Stahl's easy chance.

Larry had a rather bad day in the field. In fact it was just as well for the captain's sake that the game was not close. Of five chances given, he handled only one ball cleanly. Hard hits were driven, but no harder than Larry usually handles like he could a piece of pie. In the fourth inning, with two on base, Wagner hit to Larry and he kicked the ball to Fletcher, forcing Stahl at second. In the third there were two on again. He once more punted Yerkes' hit to Fletcher, forcing Hooper.

The climax came in the eighth when he muffed Cady's easy fly back of the pitcher's box. This resulted in the last run the Sox made. Cady went to third on Hall's single to right and tallied on Hooper's sacrifice fly to Snodgrass. Yerkes got to second on a wild pitch. Speaker then gave Larry a chance to take his grounder. Those of the fans who had remained at the park, braving the wintry blasts, tried to rattle Larry, but he threw out Speaker with ease.

As a result of the morning's confab the Giants tried another plan of attack, which was how to get around Heinie Wagner's system of blocking the runners when they came to second. In the second inning Devore got a walk and stole second. Wagner got in front of the boy. Josh slid around him. But the lesson hadn quite caught on because, after Doyle had been passed, Hall whipped the ball to Wagner. Josh was blocked off. Heinie dropped the ball, but picked it up, touched Devore, at the same time calling Umpire Klem's attention to the fact that Josh was froze off the base, thereby making a double play unassisted.

As the series now stands it bears out what I said before it started—that it looked like a toss-up as to which would get the big end of the money. But the New Yorkers have a decided shade the better of the situation. The knocking out of Wood, the heavy stick work of the Giants and the prospect that Mathewson will pitch today's game against the best that Manager Stahl can produce, will have their effect.

WORLD'S SERIES RECEIPTS TOTAL TO PASS $500,000

Enormous Profits of Major League Baseball Shown by Title Games.

By W. J. O'CONNOR

Unless the attendance for the decisive game of the world's series at Fenway Park, Boston, falls off 50 per cent, today, the receipts for eight games will go away above the half-million mark. Wednesday morning the cash taken in totals $463,333. Only $36,667 is needed to make it $500,000. The average for each game so far has been $66,190.

The enormous drawing power of baseball never was more forcibly impressed on the money-mad magnates. At Sportsman's Park Tuesday, one prominent baseball man remarked:

"How can a baseball owner put a price on his ball club? Especially if it's a winner. Just look at the receipts for the world's series. Why, each owner will receive over $150,000. And that's only for a week's work. And just think what the teams made all season. I believe the Boston club will have earned close to $400,000 for the year after all the profits are put together and a total struck."

Just think of it! Then think of Jim McAleer, who a few years ago was a second-rate manager of a tail-end ball team in St. Louis. After proving a failure in the managerial end of the game McAleer tried "magnating" and made his fortune in one stroke.

Here are the figures to date for the series:

First game—Attendance, 87,730; receipts, $75,127; National Commission, $7513; owners, $13,523; players, $40,568.

Second game—Attendance, 30,148; receipts, $58,369; National Commission, $5830; owners, $10,506; players, $31,519.

Third game—Attendance, 34,624; receipts, $86,142; National Commission, $6314; owners, $11,365; players, $34,096.

Fourth game—Attendance, 36,502; receipts, $76,644; National Commission, $7664.40; owners, $13,795; players, $41,387.76.

Fifth game—Attendance, 34,683; receipts, $63,201; National Commission, $6320; owners, $28,440.45.

Sixth game—Attendance 30,662; receipts, $66,650; National Commission, $665.40; each owner, $29,994.30.

Seventh game—Attendance, 32,694; receipts, $57,196; National Commission, $5719.60; each owner, $25,738.20.

Totals for eight games—Attendance, 239,043; receipts, $463,333; National Commission, $46,073; each owner, $133,362.87; players, $148,070.76.

Totals for six games last year—Attendance, 179 851; receipts, $342,164.50; players, $127,-910.61; owners, $90,108.72; National Commission, $34,036 45.

SPORT SALAD BY L. C. DAVIS.

THREE ALL.

Once more the Giants took the field,
Amid a demonstration;
With anxious bearing, ill concealed,
They faced the situation.

Three games to two the series stood—
The Giants' hopes were dwindling;
When suddenly they got to Wood
And split him into kindling.

Then letting out a lusty shout,
These great Manhattan sprinters
Jumped on to Wood, all spraddled out,
Reducing him to splinters.

They hammered Wood until he broke
Beneath their wicked smashes;
Then "Smoky Joe" went up in smoke,
And left a trail of ashes.

They sent a call for Pitcher Hall
To stem the tide of battle;
But all in vain—New York again
Was coming with a rattle.

And now the call is three games all,
These warriors, game and loyal,
Will rally to their leaders' call
And stage a battle royal.

SOCCERITES TO START SEASON NEXT SUNDAY

The St. Louis Soccer League will ring up its curtain at Athletic Park next Sunday afternoon, when the Innisfails play the Dempseys, the new team, in the opening game, and the St. Leos meet the Columbus Club in the second. The Dempseys are under the management of Ed Houlihan, formerly of the Irish-Americans, while the other clubs will again be led by their former managers. Paul McSweeney has been appointed official referee. Dr. A. Murray will again serve as president and Will J. Dooling as secretary.

PUERTO RICO PLANS SUNDAY RACE MEETINGS

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—John L. Gray, acting as agent for the Puerto Rico Government, is in New York today for a conference with August Belmont and other members of the Jockey Club.

He is seeking to obtain recognition and assistance from the Jockey Club in behalf of a new racecourse to be constructed at San Juan. The course will have racing on every Sunday throughout the year.

Trolley Leaguers to Meet.

A meeting of the members of the Trolley League will be held at the Marquette Hotel Thursday evening, when President Krebs' action in calling off the post-season series to decide the pennant will be discussed. The series was to have decided the tie between Mount Olive, Belleville and Alton.

STEELE AND HAM RENEW DUEL FOR TITLE WEDNESDAY

Principals in Sunday's Deadlock Probably Will Pitch in Decisive Game.

If the Browns were on a racetrack they would be ruled off.

After their rank performance Monday Stovall's men braced Tuesday, put up the scrappiest scrap ever fought on any diamond, took both ends of a double bill and tied up the series with the Cardinals, 3—3.

Wednesday's game, starting at 3 o'clock, will decide the city championship.

Like the battling Giants, who are coming from behind, the Browns now are slight favorites over their National League antagonists for the local championship. For the final and decisive game Manager Stovall probably will use Earl Hamilton, the southpaw, who baffled the Cards Sunday, while Boss Bresnahan may come back with Steele who held Stovall's men to three hits Sunday.

Great Pitching Duel Expected.

Fans will remember that Steele and Hamilton went 10 innings to a deadlock, 2—2, in Sunday's soiree, and the renewal of their pitching duel Wednesday should be of more than passing interest. The decisive game will be staged at Sportsman's Park.

Superior flinging by Baumgardner and Wellenmann won for the Browns Tuesday. Wellenmann uncorked another shutout game, giving the lanky southpaw a record of 18 scoreless innings against the National Leaguers. In his first out Saturday he set Bresnahan's men down with one hit—that a rather fluky double by Evans. On Tuesday he yielded six safe knocks, but distributed them with such judicial care that narry a run was compounded. Harmon opposed Wellenmann for seven innings and then gave way to Burk. Harmon was hit pretty hard but he pitched well enough to win an average game. The Cards' utter inability to hit Wellenmann, though, neutralized the effect of Harmon's hurling.

Gus Williams really was the important factor in both of the Browns' victories. 'Twas Gus' ringing four-base knock that sealed the Cards' doom. Shotton was on third at the time and the two runs ruined Sallee's rather pert pitching performance. The score was running 1—1 prior to Williams' wicked wallop.

Mr. Baumgardner had burning speed and a bewildering curve in the first game. George accomplished a feat which no pitcher in the National League has done in the past five years. He fooled Miller Huggins on strikes five times in a row, the Rabbit not getting even a good foul. This was the first time in Huggins' career that he struck out five times in one game.

WOOD AND O'BRIEN MIX IN CLUBHOUSE BATTLE

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—That the strain of the world's series has put the players in anything but a happy mood is evident from the report that Pitcher Joe Wood and "Buck" O'Brien of the Red Sox had a fight in the clubhouse before yesterday's game and were prevented from doing harm to each other by Catcher Bill Carrigan, who separated the pugilistic ball tossers. Another rumor has it that they continued their quarrel after the game. It is also said that the feeling between certain of the Red Sox players is intensely bitter.

The victory of the Giants yesterday, creating a 3—3 tie between the contestants, means that eight games will be necessary to decide the championship, a record in world's series.

DENVER TEAM STARTS ON TRIP TO COAST

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 16.—The University of Denver football squad will leave Denver Thursday morning for the Pacific Coast. The team will meet the University of Utah at Salt Lake City Oct. 19, and on the following Saturday will play the Occidental College team at Los Angeles. The Colorado team will go from Salt Lake City to San Francisco, where it will remain a day at practice before the game at Los Angeles.

The "ministers" are working hard in anticipation of the trip to California, which will be the first trip to the Coast since 1907.

WALSH WINS FIRST GAME FOR THE SOX

Ed Walsh pitched the White Sox to a 5—4 victory in 11 innings over the Cubs in Chicago Tuesday. Jim Lavender, who opposed the Iron Man in the opening draw game, was the defeated twirler. The series now stands three games won by the Cubs and one won by the White Sox.

CHARGING MACHINE TO HELP BILLIKEN LINE

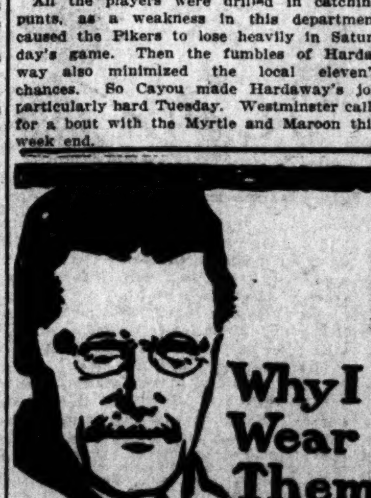
In hope of bolstering up his weak line, Coach Dennie of St. Louis U. has purchased a charging machine and the Billikens' forwards are getting workouts in large allopathic doses. Dennie contends that he can get better results with the charging machine than he can with scrimmage and at the same time safeguard against injuries.

Paul Kistner and Johnny Maguire missed Tuesday's practice. Kistner has an ailing rib, which may keep him out of Saturday's conflict with Rolla. Maguire is slightly indisposed, but will be back in harness by the week end.

CAYOU'S STARS FAIL TO REPORT FOR SCRIMMAGE

Several of the Washington U. warriors, who played through the hard game with Illinois last Saturday, are just feeling the effects of their bruises. Pothoff and Milford, the halfbacks, failed to report Tuesday, as they complained of aching shoulders. However, Cayou didn't let up on his strenuous program, prescribing a long scrimmage session for his proteges.

All the players were drilled in catching punts, as a weakness in this department caused the Pikers to lose heavily in Saturday's game. Then the fumbles of Hardaway also minimized the local eleven's chances. So Cayou made Hardaway's job particularly hard Tuesday. Westminster calls for a bout with the Myrtle and Maroon this week end.



"Result of an experiment—bought Regals at $4.00 and another make for $6.00. Regals were better and looked better."

M'CARTHY BOXES HOGAN TO DRAW BEFORE NEW CLUB

Three Bouts Pleased Crowd at Opening Show of the Tower A. C.

By HARRY S. SHARPE,
Referee for the St. Louis A. C. and the Post-Dispatch's Boxing Authority.

Barney McCarthy, the "Fighting Hibernian," entertained Patsy Hogan of New Orleans for eight rounds Tuesday evening before the Tower Athletic Club, 5018 Florissant avenue, and at the end honors were even. Hogan had age and experience, while McCarthy was somewhat younger and more eager. These fighting Irishmen didn't waste any time in preliminary sparring, but went to the scratch and started the ball rolling at once. Patsy belongs to the old school and his punches were straight from the shoulder. Most of them were aimed at Barney's face and stopped there. In the meantime Barney was sending in sockdolagers to his vis-a-vis' ribs and stomach, but the punches must have lacked steam, for the old-timer was there at the end seemingly as fresh as his younger opponent.

The exhibition was well received and no serious damage was done, though Hogan received a slight cut over his left eye in the first round that bothered him a bit and suffered a laceration of his cauliflowered left ear that bled a few drops. Hogan evened this by some well-directed left jabs that made Barney's nose very red.

Foul Blow Is Funny.

Hogan worked one blow that kept the crowd, including his opponent laughing, though it was strictly a violation of the Queensberry rules. When McCarthy, with lowered head, came rushing in, which was very often, Hogan worked a reverse chancery by catching McCarthy's head under his left arm and then swinging his right hand behind his back to Barney's face. It created a lot of fun, but did no damage.

The match was at catch weights, with Hogan weighing about 135 pounds and McCarthy 130.

In the semi-windup, six rounds at 118 pounds, "Spider" Moffatt, late of San Francisco, was too good for Willie Appleton, and the bout was stopped in the third round. Appleton appeared to be in very poor condition, and before he had boxed a round was puffing like a porpoise. In the third round, Appleton slipped to the canvas five times and then it was stopped. The boxing was very mild in this bout, but it looked as if Moffatt might have ended it any time he wished.

Jack Hess and Joe Berte went on for six rounds at 140 pounds, and Hess held the lead all the way. There wasn't much to this bout.

Jimmy Burke, ex-third baseman of the Cardinals, was carded to referee, but disappointed the crowd by not appearing. Johnnie King, who boxes "Kid" Farmer before the Business Men's Athletic Club on Thursday evening, was appointed and gave satisfaction.

MISS SEMPLE IS AGAINST STAR OF GOLF TOURNEY

City Championship Develops Good Matches in First Round at Algonquin.

Good matches are promised for Wednesday in the third round of the Women's City Golf championship on the Algonquin links. Miss Grace Semple, who did so well in the National tournament at Boston, is paired with Mrs. Edmunds of the Country Club in what should prove the feature match, while Mrs. Edwards, the present champion, will play Mrs. Terry.

In Tuesday's round all the matches resulted according to form, Mrs. Edmunds, Mrs. Edwards and Miss Semple winning by top-heavy scores. The pairings and results for the championship class follow:

Wednesday's Pairings.

Chronic Ulcers Mean Bad Blood

If outside influences were responsible for chronic ulcers, then external applications and simple cleanliness would be a curative treatment. But the trouble is always in the blood which has become unhealthy and diseased, and keeps the sore open by continually discharging into it the impurities and infectious matter with which the circulation is filled. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., may cause the place to scab over temporarily, but the blood is not made purer by such treatment and soon the old inflammation and discharge will return and the sore be as bad or worse than before. Nor will removing the place by surgical operation insure a cure; the cause still remains in the blood and the sore is bound to return. S. S. S. heals old sores by going down into the blood and removing the impurities and germs which are responsible for the place. S. S. S. thoroughly purifies the circulation and in this way destroys the source of every chronic ulcer. In addition to purifying the blood S. S. S. enriches this vital fluid and in every way assists nature in overcoming the bad effects of a chronic ulcer. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free.

Long Wait in Box Before Game Kills Wood's Chances

Crowd Breaks Out on Field Before Contest, While Star Pitcher Remains in Box Without Throwing a Ball to Keep Himself Warmed Up.

By CHRISTIE MATHEWSON.

(Copyright, 1912, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

BOSTON, Oct. 16.

THE Giants got to Joe Wood and it was lucky they reached him first, for it was certainly no day for pitchers. The weather was too cold for low scores.

I attribute Wood's poor showing to two things that occurred this afternoon. Just as the game was about to start the crowd in the left field bleachers broke the front of the stand down and rushed on the field.

The police had to drive them back and in the general scramble that followed, Wood stood in the pitcher's box eight or ten minutes waiting for the field to be cleared, so that the game could start. He went into the box properly warmed, but that delay gave him a chance to cool off and also gave his nerves a chance to get working. When he started to pitch, he did not have a thing. His speed was missing and his curve ball would not break for him. Devore and Doyle discovered that he was in bad shape as soon as they got a crack at him.

"He hasn't got a thing," said Larry as he came to the bench, after scoring. "Now is the time to get him."

We certainly got him, six runs and seven hits in that first inning made him look pretty bad.

Wood made another mistake in the first inning, which proved to be costly and of which a big League pitcher is seldom guilty. He took a windup with men on first and second bases, and Devore and "Larry" Doyle worked the double steal on him. It was entirely unexpected, and Devore showed quick thinking by taking advantage of the mistake. McGraw had not ordered the double steal, but had instructed Snodgrass to sacrifice. Suddenly I saw Wood shake his left wrist as a pitcher often does before he winds up, and I said to George Wiltse, sitting next to me on the bench: "He's going to take a windup." Sure enough, he wound up just as if there was no one on the bags. Of course, McGraw, coaching on third, did not have time to warn Devore, but "Josh" was on the job, and, although greatly surprised to see Wood take the swoop with his arm, he was off with the motion and came into third base standing up. Doyle followed him down to second. Cady was also so surprised that he missed the ball.

Lewis Misjudges Fly.

That play upset the Red Sox and put Wood into the air. Afterwards Merkle hit a fly to left field, which the wind carried out of its course, and Lewis misjudged the ball. Wood was gone absolutely now. I cannot figure why he took that windup unless he realized when he started that he did not have anything on the ball and studying the batter to decide what kind of ball to give him. In this way he might have forgotten that the men were on the bases. It is a mistake that is seldom made and it surprised me to see a smart pitcher like Wood do it.

It was the destruction of Wood that caused the team to crack. There was a lot hanging upon the game from their point of view. They had their veteran pitcher left to shoot at us, and they all know that he had a sore arm, so I am told. They were depending upon his knowledge of baseball to pull him through, and they hoped that the soreness would work out of his arm after an inning or two.

Wood's Arm in Bad.

We had not been tipped that Wood had a bad arm, although we had seen the statement in some of the Boston papers. We thought at first that it might be a plan to throw us off, but we were watching for signs. After Devore and Doyle had made their hits in the first inning, Wood let his arm drop at his side as if tired, and rubbed his shoulder. McGraw noticed that at once, and walked to the bench from the coaching lines.

"Wood has got a sore arm," he said. "Everybody hit the first ball."

That was when we went after the first ball instead of waiting it out, as we had intended. We guessed that he would try to lay it over, and keep out of the hole, and he evidently thought we would let the first one go.

Murray sacrificed on the first ball pitched to him, laying down a bunt to Stahl. Merkle hoisted a high fly to left field on the first ball, which Lewis missed. Herzog hit at the first ball, and forced Merkle at third. Meyers singled to left on the first ball. It was a first ball inning.

First Inning Decides Game.

The rest of the game did not amount to much. We knew that we had it won after that first inning, but it was a lucky think that we made a lot of runs because Tesreau pitched a sloppy ball. The cold weather may have had something to do with this showing, but the chances are that two nails torn off the first and second fingers of his pitching hand bothered him. He had these pushed back from the flesh by a throw from Meyers in the game in New York on Friday, and one nail was painfully split. Both were very sore. He depended absolutely on these two fingers to throw his spitball, and these two are the last that the ball touches before it leaves his hand. This undoubtedly bothered him, and hurt his control. I know his wildness bothered us on the bench, too, and McGraw kept me warming up throughout the game for fear that the Boston club should make a lot of runs.

"Sore fingers bother you, Jeff?" Mac asked him after the inning when three had been left on bases.

"No, not much," replied Jeff, but it is plain that they did.

"One of the worst games that I ever pitched," said Tesreau afterwards, but he got away with it and that is what really counts.

$1500 Apiece at Stake.

Now nobody is thinking of anything but today. The result of the series and about $1500 apiece to the Giants hangs on the score. I believe that we have the better chance. The Boston team apparently had the series won after Saturday's game. The Giants went after the two contests with the idea that they would play their game and forget about the result. They have gone in there and shown what they can do. They have been hitting the ball in the last two games and are liable to give most any pitcher that Stahl starts against us a hard battle. It will probably be Wood again today unless his arm is so sore that he cannot lift it. You can figure it out for yourself. Stahl has his choice between Wood and Bedient. Wood was the leading pitcher of the American League last season. Stahl will undoubtedly put it up to Wood again if he is fit.

Even if Wood does start, I believe that we will have the edge on the game, because the great Boston pitcher has had his confidence in himself shaken by that game there yesterday, when he received such a drubbing in the first inning. The Giants have just hit their stride and the Red Sox appear to be sloughing off theirs. They seemed to lack confidence today. Now that the Giants have pulled up on even terms, they will play their heads off. I think that McGraw will send me in to the game to pitch. I expect to win it. Much may depend on the breaks. However, it will be some battle.

ILLINI TEAM TAUGHT A B C'S IN FOOTBALL

URBANA, Ill., Oct. 16.—Fearing that inexperience may be a big handicap when the University of Illinois men meet Sheldon's Indiana eleven Saturday, the coaches sent the members of the team through a hard practice yesterday. Instead of drilling the men on the more intricate plays, the coaches devoted their time to teaching rudimentary football.

Linemen were taught to charge and block, while the ends were sent up and down the field after punts. The squad was cut during the day to 31 players.

Surprise in Women's Tennis Match.

One of the big surprises of the women's city tennis championship was sprung Tuesday when Miss Natalie Arnstein and Miss Edith McCormick lost their match in the final round of [illegible] to Mrs. T. B. Entz and Mrs. George Randolph, in straight sets, 6—4, 6—4. Miss Arnstein and Miss McCormick were generally favored to win.

Gibson Will Oppose Standen.

Wiley Gibson and Albert Standen will meet in a special race at 15 miles on motor cycles at the motordrome Wednesday evening. A $200 purse and a $100 side bet are said to have been posted. Other races are on the program.

Two Games for C. B. C. Team.

The Christian Brothers' College eleven will play two games within four days on foreign soil in its next contests. The squad goes to Arkadelphia, Ark., to meet the Henderson College team Friday and will remain in that city until Monday, when it tackles the Ouachita College aggregation.

Last Day for Memberships.

Boxing enthusiasts desiring to join the Business Men's Athletic Club, which stages a boxing show in the Jai Alai Building Thursday evening, will be required to procure memberships before midnight Wednesday.

PROP'TY OUT OF CITY FOR SALE

OPENING OF A NEW PORT TOWN IN TEXAS.

On Nov. 20 next a new port town, Freeport, Tex., will be opened at the mouth of the Brazos, just above its entry into the Gulf of Mexico. This is an absolutely safe, land-locked harbor, and is to be free from all dockage and wharfage charges. A powerful syndicate is behind this enterprise, and its ambition is to see a great port city built at the mouth of the Brazos. Thus will spring into being a new city at a location whose wonderful natural advantages fit it as the great commercial gateway to Texas.

The opening of the Panama Canal, coupled with the free port feature, make a wonderfully significant combination. The owners will share the prosperity with the public, and will offer lots on the opening day at prices and terms that will seem moderate, as the interest in this new town is marvelous.

The Government is maintaining the jetties and channel from the Gulf of Freeport; regular steamship service is operating from the Freeport channel to New York; application for resurvey for a still greater depth of water is now before the United States Rivers and Harbor Commission.

The developing syndicate owns the immense sulphur fields at Freeport, with big investment in sulphur production—in itself a wonderful town building feature; cheap fuel oil invites factories, and sites along the water front will be donated to industries making satisfactory showing; streets are being graded—main streets surfaced and sidewalked and curbed; fine hotel and waterworks under construction.

For literature and full information, address Freeport Town Site Co., Freeport, Tex.; E. C. Hastings, manager for S. M. Swenson & Sons and associates. (c83)

POST-DISPATCH'S DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANC[E]

BUYERS MAKE PRICES IN THE STOCK MARKET

Leading Shares Show Rather Wide Gains on Better Foreign News.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.
The stock market closed firm. Buying in Amalgamated Copper was active and lifted the price nearly 2 points above 91 and other leaders made gains. Final figures were near the best of the day.

The signing of a peace treaty between Italy and Turkey had a stimulating influence on stock prices today, despite the indications of continued activities in the Balkans. Early quotations on the leading shades showed gains averaging nearly one point. Canadian Pacific jumped 4⅞ points on the initial trade at 269.

London's market reflected the improved foreign political conditions with a higher value on American shares, and there was considerably buying in this market by houses with foreign connections. Liverpool grain cables also were weak and lower, with wheat futures down 1d to 1¼d and corn 1d.

Domestic news was favorable, the weather map showing ideal conditions in all directions. Trade advices indicate continued activity in importa[nt] industries. Money continues to reflec[t] a brisk demand.

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S WALL STREET TRANSACTIONS

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Settlement of hostilities between Italy and Turkey exerted a stimulating effect on foreign markets today which later found reflection here. All Americans were higher in London with especial strength in Canadian Pacific.

That stock opened in this market with a gain of over 4 points, while numerous speculative issues rose [o]ver a point. Coppers were again a strong feature. Europe's reduced supplies of the metal and expectation of an immediate increase in the amalgamated division causing 1 to 2 point gains in that group. Bonds were steady.

New York supported the market in the afternoon when values made further gains. The closing was steady.

Money was in better demand and discount rates were easy.

Prices worked slowly upward again in the late afternoon, with particular strength to certain specialties, notably Mexican petroleum, which touched record figures.

Business contracted and a disposition to take profits cost Reading and Canadian Pacific a point. Steel held relatively better than other leaders.

Local Money Market.

If commercial paper rates have changed in the West, as some bankers claim has been the case, the influence has thus far not been felt at St. Louis. Both for long and short-time negotiations the bases have not been altered this week. Outside commercial notes have been accepted up to six-months periods at 6 per cent. Some of the banking institutions have shown a rather decided preference for the longer term accommodations, feeling that the present period of firmness would not be a permanent feature in 1913.

COTTON MARKET MOVES OVER IRREGULAR RANGE

Early Trade Is Lower but a Rally Follows.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 7 points to an advance of 2 points, near positions being lower under liquidation, while later months reflected gulf-storm apprehensions and a more favorable view of European politics.

Prices sold about 6 to 7 points net higher shortly after the call, on covering of shorts and buying for reaction, but met a good deal of Southern selling through local spot houses, and soon became nervous and irregular. After reacting to about the closing figures of last night, the market firmed again, on the forecast for rains and high winds in East Texas.

Reports that a gulf storm was working toward the coast with increasing intensity were followed by a firmer market, and active months sold about 9 to 12 points net higher on covering of shorts and trade buying. Spot quiet, middling uplands, 10.75c nominal.

The signing of peace between Italy and Turkey, less apprehension over the war in the Balkans and receipts of 2011 cars of wheat in the Northwest, against 1320 last year, caused a sharp break in wheat futures Wednesday. Prices were driven down over 1c a bushel before the decline was arrested. In corn the tendency also was lower, a perfect weather map and lower cables working in the interest of the bears. Oats reflected the weakness in other grains with a slightly lower price range.

The lower American cables and weakness in Winnipeg yesterday caused free realizing at the opening in Liverpool and values were ½d to ⅝d lower. Following the opening there was further free selling in the way of profit taking, and prices lost an additional ⅜d to ⅝d, with December leading the decline. There is less apprehension felt regarding the Balkan outlook, and Consols showed a sharp advance. There is generally a smaller demand, with Canadian and Australian offers pressed for sale, cargoes offered 3d to 6d decline and spot markets weak and generally a penny lower. The weather in the United Kingdom continues fine, and offers are larger, with arrivals increasing and Russia forcing offers for nearby shipments. The market closed weak.

Liverpool corn opened ¼d lower, and further declined ¼d to ½d with December leading. The weakness in Buenos Ayres at the close (1⅜c to 1⅝c lower), the decline in Plate spot and the weakness in cargoes, which were offered at 3d decline, led to profit taking.

Liverpool wheat futures closed 1⅛d to 1¼d lower; corn, ⅝d to 1d lower. Paris wheat 1c lower; flour, 1c to 2c lower. Antwerp wheat, 1¼c lower; Berlin, ¼c lower; Budapest, 1⅜c up.

Minneapolis wheat cars were 549, against 579 last week and 453 last year. Duluth had 531, last week 730, last year 178. Winnipeg had 991, last week 832, last year 889. Minneapolis wheat stocks increased 625,000 bu for four days.

Local wheat receipts were 101,461 bu, or 294 sacks 53 cars local, 31 through; last year, 46,346 bu, or 65 sacks 38 cars local, 4 through. Corn receipts were 26,400 bu, or 17 cars local, 5 through; last year, 51,600 bu, or 23 cars local, 20 through. Oats receipts, 83,300 bu, or 31 cars local, 18 through; last year, 44,200 bu, or 19 cars local, 7 through.

The daily Trade Bulletin says: "The movement of wheat to the primary markets of the United States from July 1, 1912, to Oct. 1, 1912, was about 105,000,000 bu, compared with 92,000,000 for the corresponding time in 1911. The exports of flour and wheat during the same time were about 24,000,000 bu, compared with 27,000,000 bu for the same time last year. A decrease of 3,000,000, or 11.1 per cent. The official visible supply of wheat on Oct. 1 was about 20,000,000 bu smaller than reported in year previous. Estimating the wheat crop of the United States at 720,000,000 bu, and allowing 78,000,000 for supplies in all positions on July 1, 1912, the aggregate supplies for the 12 months would be approximately 798,000,000 bu. Allowing 525,000,000 for consumption, about 75,000,000 for seeding during the harvest year and 24,000,000 export to date, accounts for 624,000,000 and there remain for export in the current nine months, and for supplies for export and carrying over 174,000,000 bu. The exports from Oct. 1, 1911, to July 1, 1912, were about 53,000,000 bu.

Total clearances of wheat, 251,000 bu; flour, 17,000; corn, 9000; oats, 2000; wheat and flour, 328,000.

New York wired exporters say that bids from abroad on wheat are 3⅝c less today than they were Monday. All local exporters agree that there is no prospect of business.

Chicago wheat cars were 188, corn 197, oats 350. Estimated Thursday: Wheat 56, corn 118, oats 263.

Cotton in the United States is 2,110,678 Bales.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The total supply of cotton in the United States on Sept. 30 was 2,110,678 running bales, counting round as half bales, according to the Census Bureau's first regular supply and distribution report made today, in compliance with the recently enacted law requiring a monthly statement of the quantity of cotton consumed, on hand, imported and exported and the number of active cotton spindles.

Of the cotton on hand, the quantity held by manufacturers was 722,781 bales, as follows:

In cotton growing states 206,869, and in all other states 515,912. There was held at independent warehouses and elsewhere 1,387,897 bales, as follows: In cotton growing states, 1,285,834, and in all other states 102,063.

Cotton consumed in the United States during September amounted to 437,322 bales, as follows:

In cotton growing states 225,424, and in all other states 211,898.

Exports of cotton during September were 729,859 bales, as follows:

To the United Kingdom, 345,290; to Germany, 163,449; to France, 103,060; to Italy, 36,901; to all other countries, 81,159.

The imports of cotton during the month amounted to 10,510 bales, as follows:

From Egypt, 1325; from the United Kingdom, 6541; from all other countries, 2644.

The number of cotton spindles operated during September in the United States were 29,795,702, of which 11,519,913 were in cotton growing states and 18,275,879 in all other states.

HOGS—Receipts totaled around 7000 head for the day and in addition to this number 3000 were carried over from yesterday. Quality was poor and this, in conjunction with the generous supply, gave buyers the edge in trading. The general market averaged 5@10c lower, with selling slow at the decline. The top price paid for best heavy weight offerings was $9.27½; while the bulk of desirable hogs went at a $8.80@9.10 range of prices.

SHEEP—A fairly liberal run of sheep arrived today and quite a goodly proportion of the supply represented desirable lambs and sheep. Trading got started early and on practically all, at least the bulk, of the good offerings sold 15@25c higher. The top on lambs reached $7.25 and on sheep $4.25 was the high price for the day.

HORSES AND MULES—The horse market today presented a fairly active appearance, with all classes going at prices which were about steady with the early week's sales. Fresh receipts were fairly generous. Eastern classes found a good demand.

The mule trade today was on a rather inactive basis but prices ranged slightly higher than were in evidence last week. Fat cotton mules found the best demand.

Hiram Heave Aids Swat and Mac in Gaining Victory

Prize sleuth from the Willow Swamp league detects Boston putting over the greased bat trick and foils the plotters.

By SWAT MILLIGAN

the Peerless Hitter of the Poisoned Oaks.

BOSTON, Oct. 16.

NOW I recon that all you fans know that me and Mac had the right dope when e nt out to the Willow Swamp ue and hired Hiram Heave from Dice Inspectors for this week. m other secret service men that d was a joke compared with n. He hasn't missed a sign nor al of no kind since I put him job and he is pullin' real Willow Swamp strategy over every min- has won two games so far him to carry out our e and Mac has put the e runnin'. So, you can nats to Hiram Heave, th that ever worked utelage of your uncle big doin's comes off to- and Mac have our plans d as they size up now, nly have something to w you when we gits back. Keep eyes peeled and your ears to ground. When I give the signal a lever is pulled today, someone is sure to rumble.

SECRET OF A VICTORY.

an old-timer the secret of yes- 's great victory is as simple as ose on your face. Me and Mac t figured out for sometime, but n't say nothin' till we got out the bat sander workin' jus' To tell the truth, it was Hi- eave who unearthed the con- that had enabled Joe Wood the Giants twice. As soon as t on we called in an expert air by the name of Caywood, from and the thing was fixed.

While scoutin' round the grounds other day Hiram Heave comes me lookin' pale and worried. I owed somethin' was up.

"What is it, Hiram?" says I. "I ow somethin's troublin' you."

"They're putting the old greased bat trick that was worked by the rtish Greys," was his reply as he oked me and Mac in th eyes.

"I don't get you," says Mac, "what the answer? Where does the ased bat trick come in?"

I couldn't help smilin' at Mac's ignorance, but as time was precious I and showed him how old Joe nirk, the trainer of the Red Sox, at one time a secret service man mine, had been greasing the iants' bat with a patent oil spray, that whenever Joe Wood pitched a ball the greasy bat would slip in the air or roll in the dirt.

"That's mighty tough," Mac 'lowed. "What can be done?"

"Never mind," says I, "Don't get worried. I'll fix it."

Turning to Hiram Heave, I said: "Hiram, go and get Caywood this minute. Tell him to bring that new air scheme of his'n and lose no time."

THE PNEUMATIC SANDER.

Heave and Caywood had both worked in the Willow Swamp League so they knowed what I wanted. In two hours, after it had got dark, me and Hiram was out there adjusting our secret pneumatic bat sander and the home plate with little valves running up beside th rubber so disguised that even the umpire couldn't see what was doin'.

I stationed my old sleuth in a far corner of the Giants' bench behind the bat bag. With all the valves right in front of him, the idea was to press the button and make sand fly up from the plate. Hiram invented this apparatus after seeing how a steam engine sanded the tracks so that it wouldn't slip.

Now see what happened In the first inning Josh Devore didn't get no chance to hit the ball for three throws and then me and Mac thought he would get a base on balls. That bein' my idea I didn't order no valve turned. Josh hit the ball and I saw the grease fly, but the roller was too slow for Wagner and he was safe at first.

I could see that old Joe Quirk was gittin' in his work, so we knowed it was time to turn the trick. Up comes Larry Doyle and I could see that his bat was so thick with that secret grease that a fly would have slipped up on it and broke his neck. The time had come to get busy. I could hear the old compressed air purrin' in its nest under that rubber plate; lookin' around I seen Hiram Heave with his hand on the throttle and his eye glued on Larry's bat. Larry started to swing and I seen Joe Wood smile sneerin' like. He thought Joe Quirk had the thing fixed. Right then I yelled "pull." Hiram Heave yanked the lever and a little stream of sand was blowed on Larry's bat just as the ball was comin' over the pan. "Bang," Larry swung on the ball and the sand took hold. The old pill shot over second for a single. Joe Wood like to faint- ed. He couldn't imagine what was goin' wrong with his secret oil.

Then, all of sudden up comes Snodgrass. To make sure, we pulled the lever that gives the extra charge on him and when he swung the ball was smacked away out for two bases. From that on it was a picnic and me and Mac, with the aid of the pneumatic bat sander, had won a signal victory. It ain't like us to be braggin', but I guess me and Mac is bad.

THAT DOUBLE STEAL.

Before tellin' any more about the hittin' I'll tell you about Josh and Larry makin' the double steal by our same method and how Cady crossed him when he thought he was gettin' onto us. When Doyle hit that ball so hard right at the start, Cady thought he smelt a mouse and he asked Umpire Evans to bend down toward the plate. They bent down to see if there was somethin' wrong. Just at that minute Larry and Josh started to steal. I have Hiram at the office. He pressed the valve jus' as stead of discoverin' a secret, the pneumatic sander blowed an extra hard pull and filled his eyes so full of sand that he couldn't see which way the Giants was running. Every time a man would steal we'd slip Cady the sand valve and me and Mac certainly did have a spankin' good time.

Funny thing about the pneumatic bat sander is that it went out of order 'long in the fourth innin' and before we could shut off the machine the air was hissin' all over the diamond. We thought for a minute that the dickens would be to pay, but all of a sudden me and Mac seen that the Red Sox, not bein accustomed to the noise, thought it was the crowd hissin' 'em and they went straight up in the air.

Me and Mac and Hiram have a new one to pull today, and if we don't have nobody to pull a bone or git crossed we'll make old Broadway shake and rattle till the cows come home.

GREAT IDEA JERRY

(His great economical idea meets with no appreciation.)

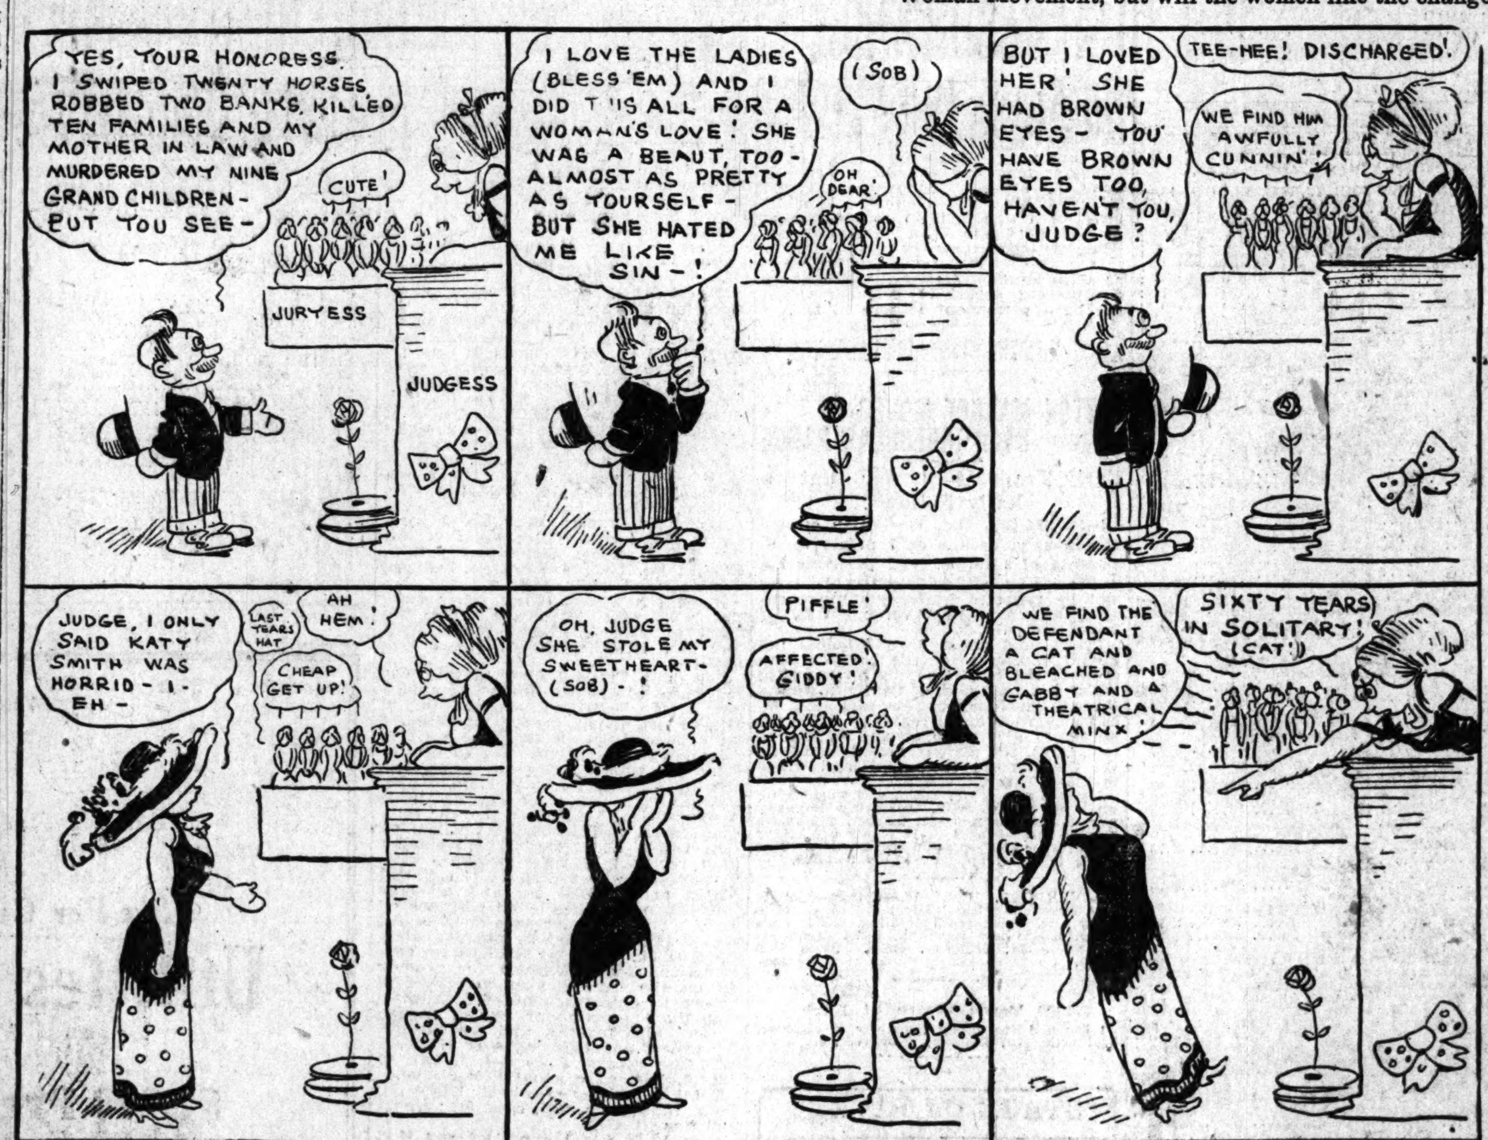
SOME DAY (MAYBE)

There is hope for men in the growing strength of the Woman Movement, but will the women like the change?



The First Kicker.

FIRST PREHISTORIC MAN: Then you don't approve of cooking and manual training in the schools?

Second Prehistoric Man: It's a shameful waste of the taxpayers' money. That daughter of mine has had two years of it, and she can't fry a dinosaur fit to eat; while my son, who has been at it just as long, has carved a club that I wouldn't trust to black the eye of a baby mammoth.—Puck.

Equipped.

"SMITH can sing duets."
"How's that?"
"His voice is cracked."

In the Pie Belt.

"WHAT kind of breakfast food have you?" the dyspeptic inquired of the waitress.

"We got all the regular kinds," said the waitress, who was a Cherryville girl; 'ham and eggs, fried steak, brook trout, doughnuts and pie. You can have all if you like, an' a cup o' coffee an' griddle cakes. We calculate to charge enough so folks can eat all they want."—Youth's Companion.

Dangerous.

HE: You are the breath of my life.

She: Then stop holding me so long or you'll die.

More for the Money.

"THEIR defense is an aggravation of their crime," said Senator La Follette of a corrupt political clique. "Their defense reminds me of the P. D. S. line.

"A man at a P. D. S. station demanded a ticket from Bacyrus to Celina, but, on hearing the price, balked.

"'What?' he snorted. 'Fifteen cents from Bucyrus to Celina! Why, the trolleys'll take me for five?"

"'Yes, I know that,' said the ticket agent. 'But you must remember, sir, that the trolley run from Bucyrus to Celina is only 20 minutes, whereas, by our railroad it makes an 80-minute ride. So after all, you see, you are not getting a bad bargain.'"—Washington. Star.

Weight for Age.

MARVIN: Is that the colt you got with 300,000 coupons? He looks old.

Martin: He is. He was born the year ... coupons.

Ruined.

"HOW does your piano work since you had it retuned?"

"I find it much better for Chopin and, Beethoven, but I can't get the Wagner effects on it as I used to."

Fruitless.

"I TOLD her of my ardent love,
One last appeal I made with zeal;
But all my pleas were fruitless
As an old banan-a-peal.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS OVERCOME TASTE AND SMELL QUICKLY RESTORED

The thousands who suffer the miseries of colds and catarrh and claim they have never found a cure can get instant relief by simply anointing the nostrils with Ely's Cream Balm.

Unlike internal medicines which upset the stomach, or strong snuffs which only aggravate the trouble, this cleansing, healing, antiseptic Balm instantly reaches the seat of the trouble, stops the nasty discharge, clears the nose, head and throat, and brings back the sense of taste, smell and improves the hearing. More than this, it strengthens the weakened and diseased tissues, thus protecting you against a return of the trouble. This remedy will cure a cold in a day, and prevent its becoming chronic or resulting in catarrh.

Nasal catarrh is an inflammation of the membrane lining the air passages, and cannot be reached by mixtures taken into the stomach, nor can it be cured by snuffs and powders which only cause additional irritation. Don't waste time on them. Get a 50-cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and after using it for a day you will wish you had tried it sooner.

Mothers should give the children Ey's Cream Balm for colds and croup. It is perfectly harmless, and pleasant to take.—ADV.

How the Body Kills Germs

Germs that get into the body are killed in two ways—by the white corpuscles of the blood, and by a germ-killing substance that is in the blood. Just what this substance is, we do not know. The blood of a healthy person always has some germ-killing substance in it to ward off the attack of disease. The fountain head of life is the stomach. A man who has a weak and impaired stomach and who does not properly digest his food will soon find that his blood has become weak and impoverished, and that his whole body is improperly and insufficiently nourished. To put the body in healthy condition, to feed the system on rich, red blood and throw out the poisons from the body, nothing in the past forty years has excelled Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a pure glyceric extract (without alcohol), of bloodroot, golden seal and Oregon grape root, stone root, mandrake and queen's root with black cherrybark.

"My husband was a sufferer from stomach trouble and impure blood," writes Mrs. JAMES H. MARTIN, of Frankfort, Ky. "He had a sore on his face that would form a scab which would dry up and drop off in about a month, then another would immediately form. It continued this way for a long time. He tried every remedy that any one would suggest but found no relief. He then tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which completely cured him. He has stayed cured now for two years, and I recommend this valuable medicine for impurities of the blood."

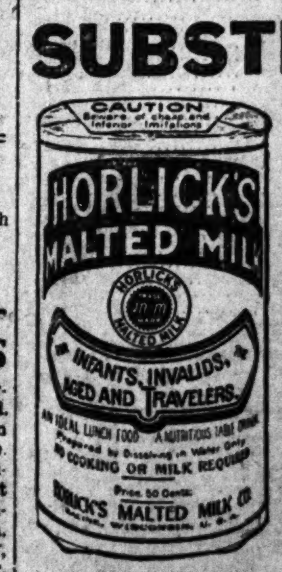
SUBSTITUTOR FINED At Soda Fountain



SOLD CHEAP MILK IN "HORLICK MILK" JAR

W. W. Pearce, manager at Park and Washington, pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Bell to selling a cheaper grade of malted milk from jars in which "Horlick's Malted Milk" had been blown and when Horlick's Malted Milk was called for. He was fined $25 and costs. The complaint was signed by Food Commissioner Bailey, who is determined to stop the practice of substituting one brand of goods for another without notification of the substitution being given. — Oregon Sunday Journal, Portland, Oregon
